FLAGS AT HALF MAST IN CALLEY CONVICTION

Several Greenbrae residents lowered their flags to half mast today in opposition to the conviction Monday of Lt. William Calley arising from the My Lai killings. Flags are (at left) at the home of Sam Chapman, 32 Corte Morada, and (right) at the home of John W. Fleming, 31 Corte Morada. Another resident, Julius J. Frnjak of 28 Corte Morada, lowered his flag first and urged his neighbors to do the same. A World War I veteran, Frnjak said, "A man in the Army is supposed to do as he is told and in the Army, he is taught to kill. If you are in a war and you kill, you shouldn't be sent to prison for it."

New School Finance Bill Due Major Bid

Statewide Property Tax Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill calling for sweeping overhaul of California's system of school finance is ready for introduction on behalf of the state Department of Education by chairmen of the Assembly and Senate education committees.

The measure calls for a statewide property tax of $3.75 per $100 assessed valuation. It wipes out present school district tax levies, and replaces them with the statewide tax plus whatever local levies are necessary to provide the amount per pupil established by a formula included in the bill.

In addition, it increases from $278.92 per pupil to $362 per pupil the amount to be transferred from the state general fund to support of the public schools.

The $3.75 statewide tax would cover elementary and high schools and junior colleges.

Details of the proposal, which will be introduced in the Assembly by Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, and in the Senate by Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, became available today with preparation of a legislative counsel's digest of its provisions.

The reform bill would result in increased tax rates for 10 Marin County school districts, and lower rates for 11.

Biggest increase would be $1.465 per $100 assessed valuation in tiny Laguna Elementary School District. Biggest drop would be $2.08 per $100 assessed valuation in Dixie School District.

Only two of Marin's large districts — San Rafael Elementary and Tamalpais High School districts — would wind up with higher tax rates. The Tamalpais rate would go up by 15.4 cents per $100 assessed valuation; that in San Rafael Elementary by 5.2 cents.

The measure would wipe out bonuses for unification and class size reduction. It would do away with the areawide tax where unification proposals have failed.

It would eliminate all statutory tax ceilings. Instead, it would limit the tax rate to be levied by the local district to either the amount in addition to the state money necessary to maintain the programs in effect this school year or the amount to meet specified expenditures per pupil where the statewide property tax and the $362 per pupil from the general fund would be insufficient.

The amount per pupil specified is $687 in elementary schools, $874 in high schools, and $917 in junior colleges. This would be adjusted annually on the basis of changes in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index.

If a district wished to increase spending per pupil by more than the amount provided by the consumer price index adjustment, it would have to place the proposal before the voters.

The per-pupil amounts do not include funds spent for debt retirement, major capital outlay programs, special education,

Larkspur Wins Terminal Vote

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday came out in favor of the Hutchinson's Quarry site in Larkspur as the central Marin ferry terminal. (Other supervisors stories, page 10.)

"If we can't make up our minds here, we can't expect the Golden Gate Bridge board to make a decision," Supervisor Michael Wornum told supervisors, who have kept refusing to grasp the political hot potato.

On his motion, and a second by John F. McInnis, four supervisors voted in favor of the Larkspur site over the Dominic Muzzi property in the Corte Madera marshland. Louis H. Baar, the fifth supervisor, abstained.

"Both Larkspur and Corte Madera are in my (supervisorial) district," explained Baar. "Both have excellent plans. The bridge district will have to make the selection ultimately. So as not to play any favorites, I'm going to abstain."

Wornum called for an official vote by Marin supervisors in order to help the Golden Gate Bridge directors who are evenly divided between the Corte Madera and the Larkspur sites.

The preference for Larkspur, however, is subject to reasonable terms of sale for the land, said Wornum. If the terms are unreasonable, the county and the bridge district should be free to pick another site, he explained.

Saigon Hits Red Base In Laos Again

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese commandos today attacked a Communist base camp inside Laos in what President Nguyen Van Thieu called an "encouraging" new phase of the campaign to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trail. Fifty U.S. helicopters carried the 300 troops into battle.

Before announcing the new incursion in Laos, Thieu told South Vietnamese troops at Dong Ha near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), "We attack Cambodia, Laos and we can attack North Vietnam."

Thieu did not say how long the South Vietnamese planned to remain at what he termed "Communist Base Area No. 611" but an earlier, canceled operation into the same area, 33 miles south of Khe Sanh and west of the upper half of the A Shau Valley, was supposed to last three days.

Thieu said the combat assault by elite Black Panther troops of the 1st Infantry Division of the South Vietnamese army was preceded by massive American bombing raids.

Thieu said South Vietnamese units "have just landed in (Communist) Base No. 611 in the Laotian operations area and the attack is still continuing." He said the attack already was "bringing encouraging results."

The first campaign to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the primary Communist supply network into Cambodia and South Vietnam, began Feb. 8 and appeared to have ended a week ago with the withdrawal of nearly all the

Nixon Aide Asks Campaign Limits

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration proposed today that a overall limitation be set on the amount of money a political candidate for federal office could spend on advertising, but did not recommend a formula to fix the amount.

Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kliendienst testified that President Nixon recently made it clear that he favored a limit on expenditures and added "it must be comprehensive and it must not give an advantage to those in office over those seeking office."

Kliendienst told a Senate communications subcommittee that spending limitations should apply to both broadcast and nonbroadcast media but that there should be one comprehensive limit, leaving it to the candidate how to allocate his advertising budget.

A bill sponsored by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., would set a spending ceiling for a presidential, senatorial or congressional candidate of 21 cents per vote cast for that office in the last previous election. Of this, seven cents could be allocated to television.

But Kliendienst, on behalf of the administration, rejected a formula based on the number of voters in the previous election. He said that "would limit today's campaign to yesterday's performance."

"Further, the formula used

Democrats In House Vote For '73 Pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats went on record 138 to 62 today for ending U.S. involvement in Vietnam not later than the end of 1972.

In effect the action paralleled that of Senate Democrats who recently voted 38 to 13 (with two abstentions and two reservations) to work for an American withdrawal "in a time certain." Senate leaders said the language meant during the 92nd Congress.

But at a party caucus preceding todays session, House Democrats rejected the Senate language, which they considered ambiguous, by a 120 to 81 vote. They substituted the phrase "during the 92nd congress" which runs through 1972.

They then substituted that language for a proposal by the party's most vigorous antiwar forces to seek an end of U.S. participation in the Indochina war by the end of this year.

House Democratic leaders originally had opposed putting any specific date in any resolution lest it be construed as unfairly tying the President's hands in his effort to negotiate a successful end of the war.

Neither House nor Senate resolution has any binding effect. However, Democrats comprise a majority in both Houses and the stand could be reflected in later legal restrictions.

Any such action by the House would come as a sharp reversal of its previous stands which have tended to support presidential actions in Vietnam. First tests of the new antiwar sentiment were due in the House later today and Thursday on proposed restrictive amendments to a bill to extend the draft law. One such proposal would bar use of draftees in Vietnam.

Calley Is Sentenced To Life For My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A military jury sentenced Lt. William L. Calley Jr. to life imprisonment at hard labor today for the My Lai massacre murder of 22 Vietnamese women, children and old men.

The verdict came after five hours and 48 minutes of deliberation on the sentencd, which the jury begun considering late Tuesday. It took the six officers 13 days to arrive at a verdict of premeditated murder Monday.

The sentencing in the landmark case came at 2:36 p.m. EST with the 5-foot-2 convicted mass murderer standing at attention facing Col. Clifford H. Ford, the court president.

"First. Lt. William L. Calley, it is my duty as president of this court to inform you that the court in closed session and upon secret written ballot, three fourths of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring sentences you:

To be confined at hard labor for the length of your natural life, to be dismissed from the service, to forfeit all pay and allowances," Ford told the defendant.

The judge, Col. Reid W. Kennedy, announced at 1:05 p.m. EST that the jury had decided upon a sentence for Calley, whose trial—which began Nov. 12—was the longest in U.S. military history.

In an emotional two minutes and 12 seconds yesterday Call spoke his last words to the men who will punish him: "Yesterday, you stripped me of all my honor. Please, by our actions that you take here today, don't stripe future . . . (his voice broke in a sob) . . . future soldiers of their honor, I beg of you."

"The facts, gentlemen," replied the driving young prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel. "The United States government did not create the facts. What he did made the facts.

"You did not strip him of his honor. What he did stripped him of his honor.

"Your courage will continue to be tested. The government says to you: take those facts, gentlemen. You must arrive at a sentence commensurate with your findings (verdict), which must show the principle involved: It is not honor and it never has been considered honor to kill unarmed men, women, and children."

By speaking to the jury just before it retired to deliberate, Calley waived the right to speak up just before it delivers its sentence. Choking back sobs and heavy breathing that interrupted his extemporaneous statement several times, the 5-foot-3 rusty-haired, tilt-nosed defendant provided the most moving moment of the trial.

Prior to his words, his 70-year-old, soft-spoken attorney, George W. Latimer, pleaded for Calley's life: "There is a place for Lt. Calley to go on and make something of his life, but he can't do it from a graveyard...I go away with a

Reopening Of Annex Negotiations Eyed

Terra Linda and San Rafael officials last night moved cautiously toward reopening of negotiations aimed at possible merger of the two communities.

Despite a fact-finding session punctuated with guarded and even skeptical remarks, representatives of the Terra Linda Community Services District, the Terra Linda Recreation-Park District board and San Rafael city staff laid groundwork for a new round of talks on city plans to annex the 1,000-home unincorporated area.

The discussion, which covered a wide range of issues that might confront negotiators, signaled resumption of a controversy dating back nearly two decades. It was last revived formally in 1961, when Terra Linda voters ended a bitter campaign by soundly defeating the city's annexation bid.

And last night, amid assurances their role was not coercive, the San Rafael representatives made it clear they still embraced the idea of absorbing the community, which is encircled by the city's northern boundaries.

"We're not here to twist anyone's arm regardless of what may have happened in the past," said City Planning Director Herbert K. Hotchner. He added that the question for Terra Lindans was "where you can get what you want for the best price" and said it was the purpose of the meeting in the Terra Linda Recreation Center to define issues.

Vernon H. Nicholson, a director of both the services district and recreation-park agency, expressed reluctance "to believe this (proposed annexation) is a benevolent or philanthropic move." But Hotchner said he felt that it "makes sense to have one geographical entity in this area" and believed Terra

CTA Joins In Strike At Schools

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Classroom Teachers Association today joined a five-day-old walkout by rival union members to shut down the city's school system.

The 2,700 member CTA voted overwhelmingly Tuesday night to stage its first strike in history in a dispute with Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen over next year's budget.

The rival American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which represents 1,800 instructors, went on strike last week. But CTA members had crossed its picket lines and kept all schools open, although most secondary schools went on "minimum day" schedules.

About one-third of the district's 4,500 teachers and 89,000 students have been absent each day since the walkout began.

The school administration announced before the CTA members voted 779 to 479 for a strike that nearly all schools would close in case of a walkout.

However, teachers from minority groups opposed to the strike said they would try to keep one high school and two junior highs operating.

Survey Pinpoints Pension Plan Woes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A survey by the Senate labor subcommittee showed today that only a fraction of American workers who leave their jobs before reaching retirement age can expect to collect anything from the billions of dollars invested in pension plans in their behalf.

The study of 87 pension plans in existence since 1950 which covered 9.8 million workers who left work early showed that only about 1 million of them will ever receive a pension.

The survey was made public by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., the subcommittee chairman, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., its ranking Republican member.

Javits said the survey disclosed the failure of a major American institution, the private pension system. He said a law is needed to guarantee workers at least a portion of their pension if they quit or are fired before reaching retirement age.

"As things now stand," Javits said in a statement, "only a relative handful of the estimated tens of millions of American workers under private pension plans will ever get anything from the plans on which they now stake their futures."

Private pension plans have assets of $130 billion, about half of what the U.S. government spends in a year. They enroll 30 million workers and are growing at the rate of $10 billion a year.

The problem involves "vesting" —the provision in a pension plan which gives an employe a non-forfeitable right to share in the pension fund which covers him if he ends his employment before reaching retirement age.

Fifty-one of the 87 pension plans surveyed required 11 years or more of employment before workers were "vested." Of those plans, 92 per cent of the 6.9 million workers who left employment before retirement age since 1950 received nothing.

Thirty-six of the plans required 10 years or less for vesting; but 73 per cent of the 2.9 million workers who left early lost their pensions rights.

Javits' bill provides that a worker with six years of service in a company would be guaranteed 10 per cent of his earned pension rights and 10 per cent more each year. He would have to work 15 years to be assured 100 per cent of his pension.

This would be enormously expensive since pension plans are usually funded on the assumption that a large percentage of the work force will never draw from them.

Vote Set For Kremlin Leaders

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Communist Party executives set the stage today for a formal renewal of the Brezhnev-Kosygin-Podgorny leadership by praising the results of their domestic policies and calling for more.

At the same session of the 24th Soviet Party Congress, Le Duan, the Communist Party leader of North Vietnam, said that "neither Vietnamization nor the Nixon doctrine nor other subterfuges by the aggressors" will avert a Communist victory in Indochina. He praised the Soviets for their backing in the war.

Speaker after speaker at today's second session of the congress described his area of the Soviet Union as a growing industrial or agricultural powerhouse.

"Victor Grishin, first secretary of the Moscow party organization, moved that the political line and practical activity of the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee be fully and entirely approved," the official Tass News agency reported.

The Central Committee is the governing body of the party between congresses. Its executive group, the Politburo, has been headed since 1964 by General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

The vote on a new Central Committee and its selection of a new Politburo will take place in the concluding stages of the congress, about 10 days hence. Experienced Moscow diplomats have been predicting re-election of the full troika leadership in spite of rumors to the contrary.

North Vietnam's Le Duan was the first foreign guest to address the congress. Representatives of 103 foreign Communist and Socialist parties were present.

Le praised Soviet backing for Hanoi's war effort as "tremendous and valuable assistance" and said, "This support is a powerful impetus, inspiring all countrymen and fighters of our entire country to still bigger victories..."

Brezhnev opened the congress Tuesday with a six-hour state of the union speech. He said the economy over the next five years would aim at "saturation" of shops with desirable goods like television sets, washing machines, milk, eggs and meat.

"Consumer goods production must go up at a higher rate than the cash incomes of the Soviet people," Brezhnev said. Emphasis on more and better consumer goods was the key domestic feature of Brezhnev's six-hour address to 6,000 delegates to the congress at the Kremlin.

The Congress, the first since 1966, reconvened today and heard a report from Gennady Sizov, chairman of the Communist party central auditing commission.

Sizov, watchdog of finances and efficiency in the party, said the Communist party "functions precisely and harmoniously with great efficiency."

For the Soviet citizen, the economic spurs were good news. But for the nation's artists and writers there were stern comments.

For instance the party made clear it will tolerate no "slander of Soviet reality" by writers and artists. By implication, it branded Nobel prize winning novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn as such an offender.

"If a writer slanders Soviet reality and helps our ideological adversaries in their fight against Socialism, he deserves only one thing—public scorn," Brezhnev said.

Alioto To Ask Venue Change

SEATTLE (UPI) —San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto is scheduled to be arraigned Thursday morning in federal court on bribery charges.

Paul Cressman, Alioto's Seattle attorney of record, said his client will petition for a change of venue to San Francisco.

Alioto along with former Washington state attorney general John J. O'Connell, O'Connell's former assistant, George F. Faler, and former Pierce County prosecutor John G. McCutcheon were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to bribe a public official.

Pact In Summer?

GENEVA (UPI) — Western disarmament negotiators said today they believe agreement with Russia on banning biological weapons will be reached by the end of the summer.

Negotiators from the United States and Britain said they think joint treaty language can be formulated before this year's disarmament conference talks wind up in early September.

This will make it possible to present the U.N. General Assembly with a final draft text, they said.

Tentative Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The British government and Lockheed Aircraft Company have reached a tentative agreement on continued production of the Rolls Royce RB211 jet engine for Lockheed's 300-passenger "airbus."

A brief statement by Lockheed Tuesday night said terms of the agreement would have to be submitted to the airlines that have agreed to buy its Tristar and to the banks that are financing it.

Details of the agreement were not made public and sources close to the negotiations said the situation was "by no means wrapped up."

Exemptions Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Draft exemptions for divinity school students should be abolished because too many young men are studying for the ministry just so they can escape the draft, according to Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo.

An end to divinity school exemptions is one aspect of the two-year draft extension bill being debated in the House, which has also become embroiled in a debate on the larger issue of the Vietnam war.

Ichord said Tuesday divinity school exemptions "are harmful to the cause of religion" because there are those "entering the ministry not for the primary purpose of serving God, but to avoid the draft."

Restrictive amendments to the draft bill, including an attempt by antiwar forces to limit the extension to only one year, came before the House again today. Democrats called a closed-door party huddle first, however, to seek agreement on their own antiwar stand.

Claims Control

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Radio Pakistan said today federal troops have brought the port city of Chittagong under control, and described the situation in the rest of East Pakistan as "normal."

A large fire was reported burning out of control along Chittagong's waterfront Tuesday, and the rebel radio had claimed the entire port was in danger of being destroyed by bombings and fires.

The government radio, in its morning news broadcast from Lahore in West Pakistan monitored here, said today federal troops had succeeded in their campaign against armed insurgents in Chittagong, 164 miles south of Dacca. It gave no other information about the ciity, but said it and all other major towns and the countryside of East Pakistan were back to "normal."

In India, 1,000 miles of which separates the east and west wings of Pakistan, the parliament's lower house unanimously announced support today for East Pakistan.

New Strikes?

By United Press International

Palestinian guerrilla sources said today the Jordanian army is preparing for new strikes against commandos in Amman and a new flareup of fighting may be imminent.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad in Paris meanwhile reconvened talks aimed at lining up more European support for Egypt's campaign to get Israel to pull out of Arab lands seized in the 1967 Middle East War.

The prediction of more fighting in Jordan coincided with a report by the guerrilla newspaper Al Fatah in Amman that the government has reinforced its troops.

Actor Acquitted

SALERNO, Italy (UPI)—American actor William Berger, who gained local fame for his bad guy roles in Italy's "spaghetti Westerns," was arrested last August when police found a fraction of an ounce of marijuana at his rented seaside villa.

Tuesday evening, a Salerno court acquitted him of all charges. In the meantime he spent nearly nine months in a jail-insane asylum and his wife, actress Carol Lobravico, died while being held in another jail.

HOW ARE YOU PROGRAMMING YOUR LIFE?

Computer experts freely admit that what comes out of a computer is only as good as what's put into it in the first place.

Have you ever stopped to think how much your own life runs on the same basis? The kind of thought you put into your life determines what you get out of it. This is why your thinking is so important.

Thousands have found that controlling their thinking is not a matter of exercising human will but understanding and using their God-given rights to order, happiness, and a sense of purpose.

Mikalson To Santa Rosa College Job

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Dr. Roy G. Mikalson, former dean of the evening division at the College of Marin, was named superintendent-president of the Sonoma County Junior College District today.

Mikalson, 49, has been president of Modesto Junior College since 1968 and will assume his new duties as president of Santa Rosa Junior College of July 1. His salary will be $30,000 per year.

He replaces Dr. Randolph Newman, who resigned last September. Brook Tauzer, dean of instruction, has served as acting president.

A native of Montana, Mikalson attended Montana State College for a year prior to World War II. He served five years in the infantry as both an enlisted man and an officer.

He returned to college in 1945 and earned a master's degree in English in 1948 from the University of Washington. In 1962 Mikalson began work on his doctorate at the University of California at Berkeley and following that, served as dean of evening division at College of Marin.

He and his wife, Eva, have four children.

24,000 South Vietnamese troops involved.

Thieu called a news conference to make the announcement after awarding medals for heroism to South Vietnamese troops involved in the earlier phase of the Laotian drive.

In a speech to the assembled Saigon troops at Dong Ha, Thieu said, "We do have the ability to attack North Vietnam. We attack Cambodia, Laos and we can attack North Vietnam.

"We have the capacity to attack in North Vietnamese territory. The type and form of attack is determined by the support we get from our allies," Thieu said in an apparent bid for American backing for any such incursion.

Thieu also said that although "I can confirm that Operation Lam Son 719 (the Laotian drive) is continuing, it will not delay the planned redeployment of U.S. troops from South Vietnam."

Thieu likened South Vietnamese successes over Communist forces in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos to the military disaster suffered by the French at Dienbienphu at the hands of the Communist Viet Minh during the first Indochina War.

"For them (the Communists), it has been a moral, political and psychological Dienbienphu," Thieu said.

The latest incursion involved more than 50 American helicopters carrying the South Vietnamese troops along with 20 AH1 Cobra gunship escorts and was carried out nine miles northwest of a similar commando type raid called off Monday due to bad weather and intense Communist ground fire.

Military sources said the new landing in Laos was made two miles south of the Laotian town of Muong Nong, site of an old French airstrip and 15 miles from the nearest South Vietnamese border point.

Military spokesmen in Saigon said meanwhile that Communist gunners destroyed the 102nd U.S. helicopter since the Laotian incursion began and U.S. Command statistics disclosed the Laotian drive cost the United States more than $33 million worth of helicopters.

The U.S. Command said two U.S. Army OH6 Cayuse observation helicopters were shot down in Cambodia's Kandal Province near Phnom Penh Tuesday, wounding four crewmen.

The Command said 1,909 American helicopters have been shot down in South Vietnam and Cambodia. Ten 'copters have been downed in North Vietnam and 92 over Laos.

Innocent Plea In Petty Theft

Thomas Howard Boyd, 25, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of trespassing and petty theft.

A trial was set for April 29.

Boyd originally was arrested Saturday on suspicion of burglary after a Fairfax man told police that his television set was missing. The television was recovered from a San Rafael pawn shop where Boyd allegedly pawned it, according to police.

adult education, children's centers, development centers, meals for needy children, and earthquake safety. School districts would be allowed to continue override tax levies for these purposes, without voter approval.

All other such override taxes now existing — including those for retirement programs, continuation schools, junior high school excess costs, etc. — would be wiped out.

However, new override taxes would be permitted to raise local funds to match state or federal apportionments for special programs, to educate physically handicapped and mentally gifted, and to provide bus transportation.

A new override tax to purchase equipment also would be permitted, limited to the amount necessary to raise $10 per pupil in elementary schools, $15 per pupil in high schools, and $20 per pupil in junior colleges.

The present complicated system of "basic," "equalization" and "supplemental" apportionments of state aid to the districts would be wiped out.

The increases in local tax rates, in most cases, would occur where the amount being levied by the district is less than the applicable portion of the statewide property tax (which is $1.87 per $100 assessed valuation for elementary school districts, for instance.

The bill will be the fourth introduced in this year's Legislature calling for a statewide property tax for school support, and the third in which school tax levies are based in some manner on expenditure per pupil.

DEBATE

tion's Indochina policies appeared to be heating up again, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., challenged claims that the allied operation in Laos was a success.

He said that assessment was either a "massive deception of the American people" or "a massive misjudgment on the part of our political or military leaders."

Fulbright, in a Senate speech Tuesday, suggested the original goal of the mission was to cut off Communist troops in Cambodia and Laos from their supplies, causing them to "die on the vine." But he said the operation was crushed long before it could achieve any of these or other goals set by the administration.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee spoke out on the subject for the first time since the operation began. The committee decided Tuesday to hold hearings after Easter on means to end the war.

But Fulbright said further, silence would "make me a party to deception or would imply an acceptance of the administration's judgment."

He asked for yes or no answers to five questions.

—Was the concept of the operation to occupy Sepone and completely sever routes of the Ho Chi Minh Trail running through the village?

—Was the plan for the South Vietnamese to be in Sepone in the first weeks and "then fan out and establish blocking positions which would be supplied, re-equipped and maintained for an expanded period of time?"

—Was the operation designed to prevent the flow of supplies south "through the remainder of the dry period?"

—"Was it believed the enemy had no capability for providing major reinforcements to threaten seriously the South Vietnamese forces in Laos and that consequently no major threat would develop to the operation?"

—"Was it hoped that the enemy supplies in South Vietnam could be completely cut off so that North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia could die on the vine."

Man Bound Over In Burglary Case

Stanley Charles Brown, 20, of San Francisco, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges he burglarized two Mill Valley residences March 11.

He is to be arraigned in Superior Court April 14.

Brown was arrested after Ruth Wilson of 740 Summit Avenue discovered a man in her home. She called police and the man fled.

A short time later, Brown was arrested on Corte Madera Avenue. In his vehicle, police said, was a satchel which had been stolen from another resident earlier that day.

Ayleen Robinson Found Dead

Ayleen Christine Robinson, 55, of 1210 Irwin Street, San Rafael, was found dead Monday in a Novato trailer park of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, according to Deputy Coroner Jack Darblay.

Mrs. Robinson's body was discovered in a trailer at 7060 Redwood Highway, at 4:50 p.m. by the trailer's occupant, Yates C. Hammett. A pistol was found nearby.

Coroner's Investigator Keith Craig said Mrs. Robinson, recently divorced, had been depressed and had been visiting Hammett, a friend. Hammett last saw her alive when he left the trailer Monday morning, Craig said.

CALLEY

heavy heart, for I see a life ruined."

Latimer was misty-eyed when he finished a speech in which he said, "There is no other reason in the world that this boy killed except that he thought the United States Army to get the war over needed to kill; if that warrants the death penalty, then I've lost my sense of perspective...

"You don't have to have eyes of glass and hearts of stone. Somewhere along the line a few humanities ought to be worked into this thing where the maximum is not given...Who taught him to kill...kill...kill... kill? If you indoctrinate men, that's the way they act."

In Boston yesterday Capt. Ernest Medina, Lt. William Calley's commander at My Lai, said all Americans share in his guilt by the way in which the murder case was conducted.

Medina, who faces murder charges himself, felt "bitterness" at the conviction, which he said was "very harsh and very severe." But he said again as he testified at Calley's court-martial, that he did not order a slaughter of unarmed civilians at the South Vietnamese village in 1968.

"Lt. Calley and myself didn't dictate policy on how the war was fought," Medina said. "I think we all, as American citizens, must share in the guilt of Lt. Calley. I think every member of the United States Army and each member of the jury as a member of the Army also shares in that verdict of guilty."

The verdict at Ft. Benning, Medina said, firmed his resolve to resign from the Army even if he is acquitted in his court-martial. "I will remove myself from the uniform I have brought disgrace upon," he said. "The incident at My Lai and the verdict against Lt. Calley leave me no alternative..."

In a related action organizations and individuals have started taking action to help Lt. William L. Calley Jr., convicted of premeditated murder in the My Lai Massacre.

A resolution urging President Nixon to grant executive clemency to Calley and restore him to active duty with the Army was introduced in the Illinois house Tuesday.

An American Legion post in Columbus, Ga., started a national campaign to raise $100,000 to finance Calley's appeal. A Vietnam widow in Louisville, Mrs. Inge Dunbar, circulated a petition to protest the conviction.

Residents in Dallas were trying to organize a silent march Friday through the city in sympathy for Calley.

Hearing Set In Pot Possession

Phillip David Harrison, 20, of Sleepy Hollow, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana.

He is to plead to the charge April 5.

Pleads Innocent To Child Abuse

A jury trial was set for May 20.

Miss Preis was arrested Saturday after police said they received complaints that her 18-month-old son was being mistreated.

ANNEX

Hotchner presented figures which showed that most Terra Lindans with a home valued at $30,000 could have saved $49 at this year's fair market value rate if they had been part of San Rafael. The saving would have been slightly higher for a few residents who pay the community service, recreation-park and county library levies but a different sanitary district rate, the figures showed.

The basic city tax rate is 86 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, Hotchner said, while most Terra Lindans are paying $1.71.

Nicholson, however, said that through annexation, Terra Linda would be surrendering to the city about $500,000 in capital assets, including the recreation center and community pool, while still having to pay off bonded indebtedness amounting to about $200,000 on recreational facilities.

Richard L. Less, vice chairman of the services district board, wondered if the city might consider assuming the indebtedness in view of the fact that all San Rafael residents would be entitled to use Terra Linda's recreational facilities once the community were annexed.

"If you're saying these is negotiating to do ... that's reasonable," Hotchner said.

The San Rafael representatives also were questioned, sometimes sharply, about possible upgrading of services once Terra Linda were absorbed, but Hotchner said all city staff could do would be to recommend to the city council that the present level of performance be continued, with possible increases later on.

Less said the major questions involved in merger are whether the community center and its pool are adequate to serve the large population it would attract in the Las Gallinas Valley and whether the city might permit a subsidiary taxing agency to remain in the Terra Linda area to support local facilities.

Another, he stressed, is how annexation would affect people that would remain in unincorporated areas to the south. He hoped the issue would be taken to the Las Gallinas Valley Council. (Meanwhile, San Rafael and Terra Linda officials are to meet tonight with Marinwood officials to the north to pursue possible San Rafael merger of land in that region.)

Less also criticized the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission, which at its last meeting delayed consideration of a plan to merge the two Terra Linda agencies after San Rafael officials told commissioners of their merger hopes.

Proposed merger of the districts, he said, still should be considered "on its merits."

for the 1972 election would not take into account all persons 18, 19 and 20 years old who were recently enfranchised by the 1970 voting rights act amendments," he said.

Kliendienst also said different requirements of candidates in different parts of the country must be taken into account and that Congress must resolve to what extent expenditures of individuals and organizations not directly connected with a candidate should be included in the office seeker's allowance.

Kleindienst said the Justice Department "strongly opposes" a limitation on individual contributions, telling the subcommittee that present limitations "have proved to be ineffective, unrealistic and incapable of enforcement."

"Rather, the main emphasis at this time should be on full disclosure and reporting," he said.

Kliendienst also recommended total repeal of the equal time provision for all federal offices and backed a requirement that media services provide time and space at the lowest unit rate charge.

The most recent indication from President Nixon came in his hour-long interview with ABC correspondent Howard K. Smith. Nixon said there should be an over-all limit on the amount of money that a political candidate could spend on his campaign.

Generally, money-poor Democrats, whose national committee still has a $9.3 million debt, favor a ceiling on spending. Republicans, with easier access to campaign funds, are not as eager for a limitation although they also favor reforms.

Revamping Of Schools Due Study

Possible reorganization of Central and Deer Park schools in Fairfax will be the subject of a hearing before the school district board April 13 at the Deer Park School.

The district board last night set the 8 p.m. meeting to discuss making one school kindergarten through third grade, and the other grades 4-6. Both schools currently contain K'6 grades.

The other elementary school, Manor, would remain K-6.

Supt. Reginald D. Hammond said today information about the proposal would be sent to parents next week.

Dr. Hammond said the plan would eliminate duplication of play areas and work materials. A similar proposal was made a year ago but was dropped by the board. In other business, members adopted district goals and objectives as required by state legislation. The goals were compiled by a committee of parents, teachers, board members and administrators.

Woman Fined $100 For False Bomb Report

Patricia Lawler Coy, 46, of Strawberry, was fined $100 yesterday in Marin Superior Court for making a false report of planting a bomb in the Hall of Justice.

In sentencing Mrs. Coy, Judge Henry J. Broderick declared the crime a misdemeanor.

Mrs. Coy was found guilty of calling the sheriff's department Oct. 8, only hours after a real bomb exploded in a courtroom, and saying she had planted a bomb in a waste basket on the court floor. She identified herself in the call to the sheriff's office.

Her call caused the Civic Center to be evacuated for about half an hour. She was arrested later at her home.

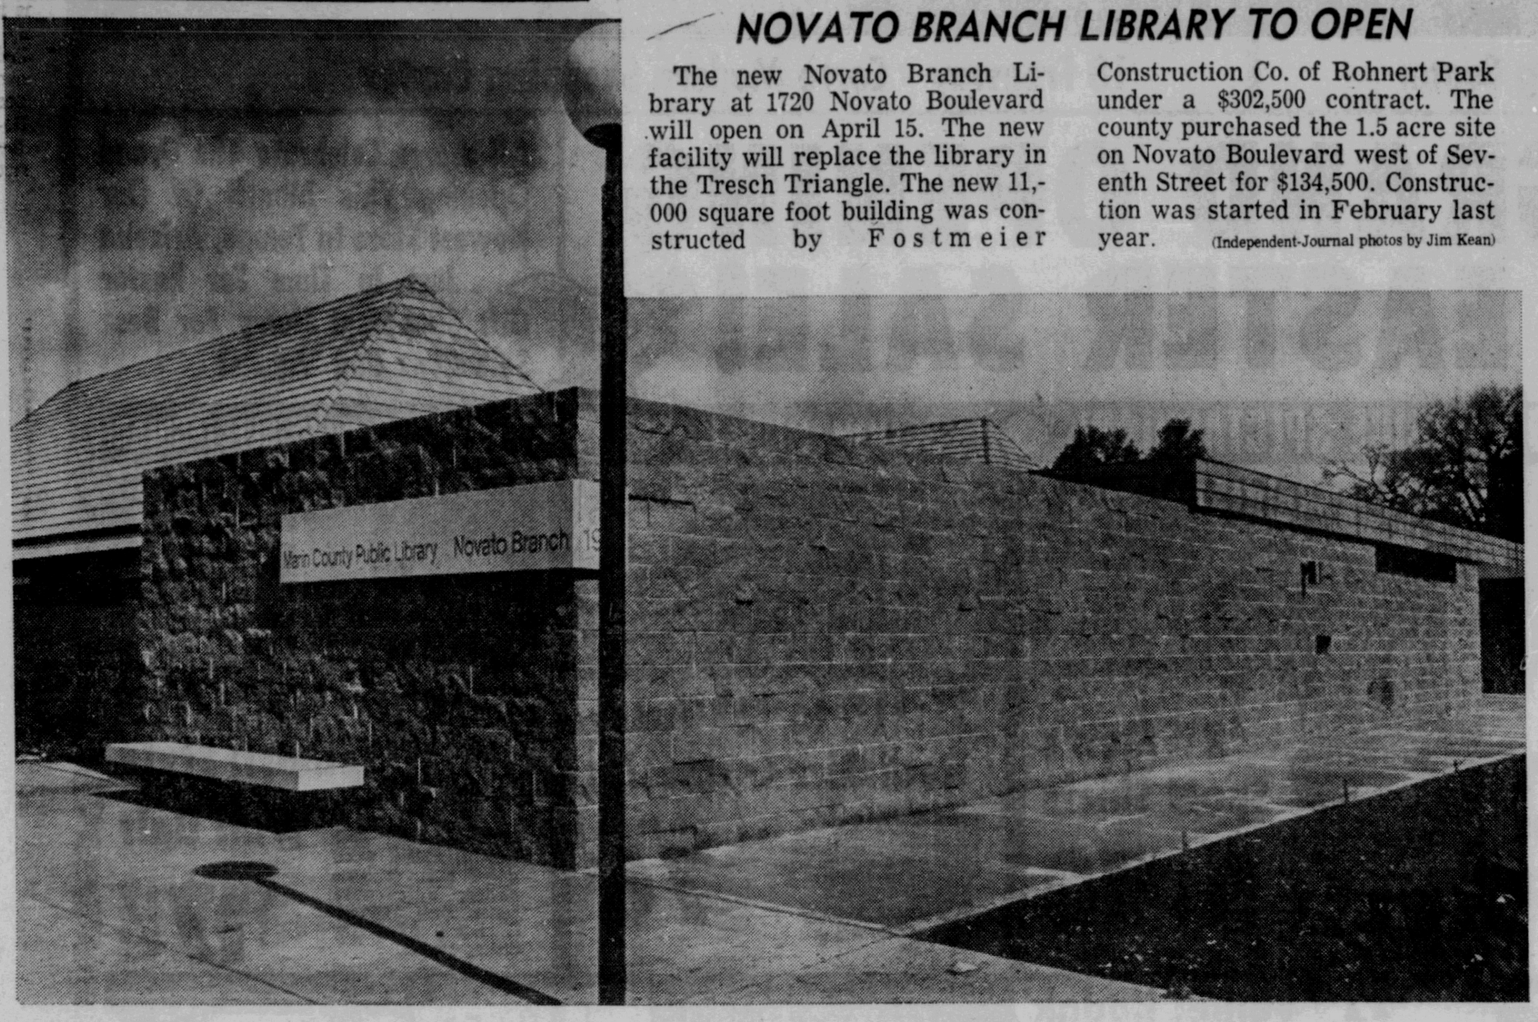
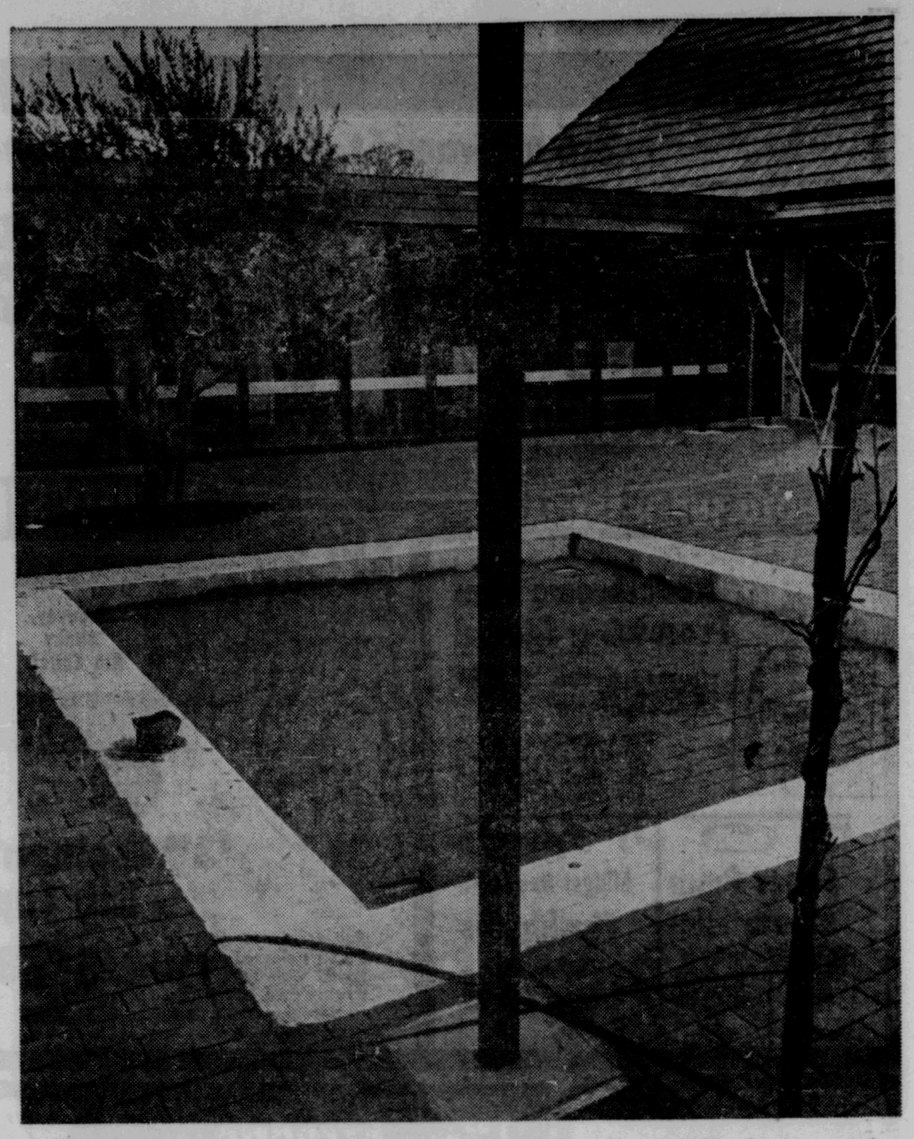
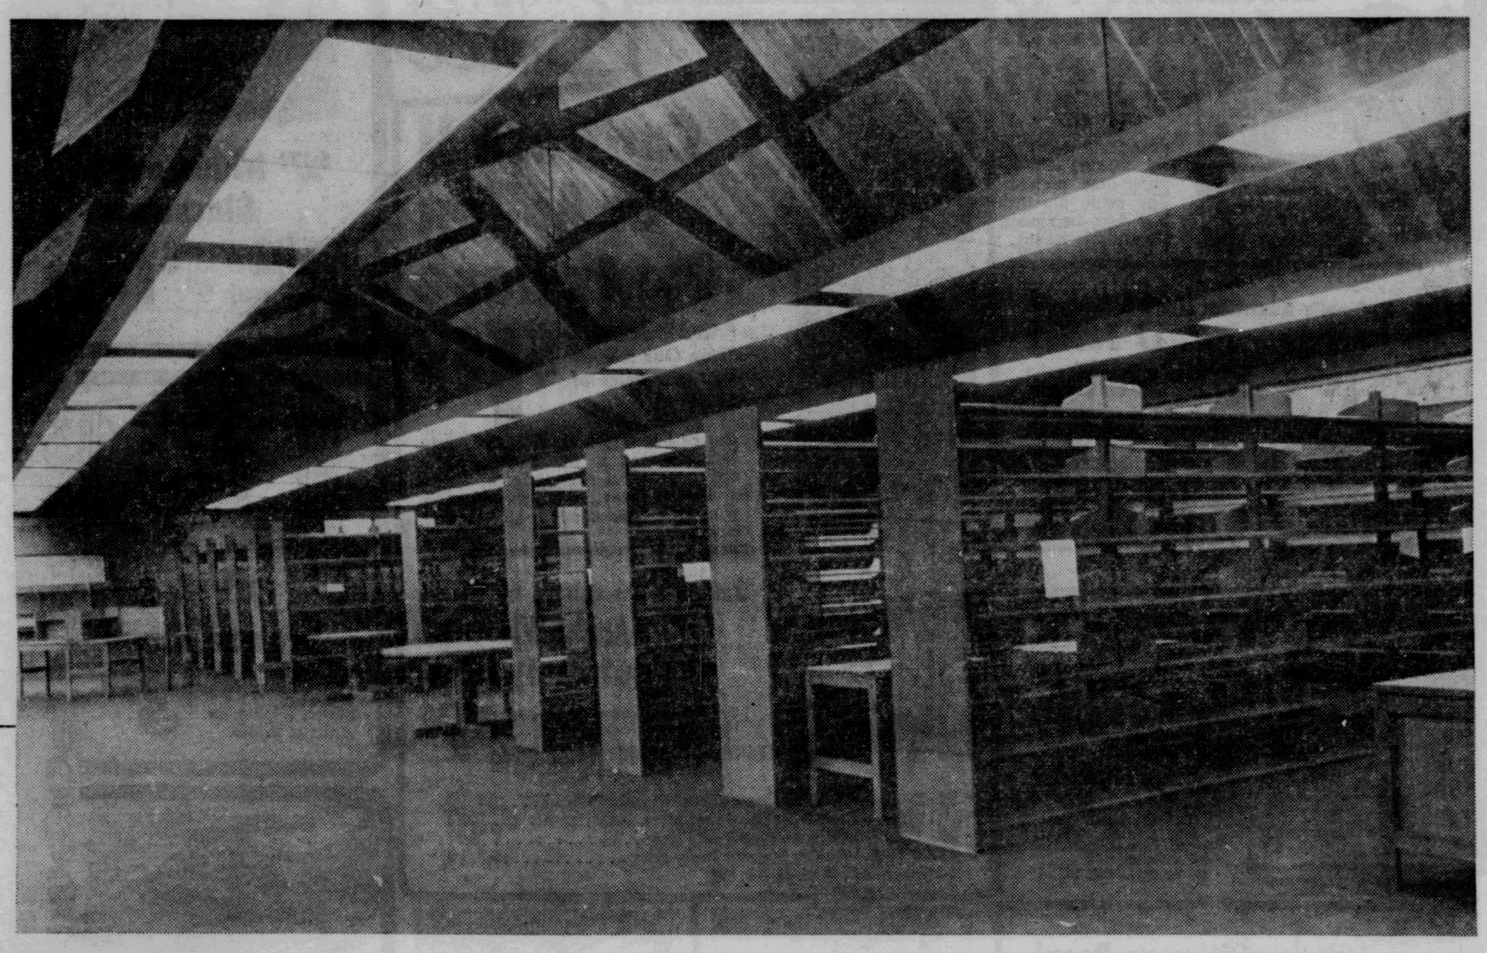
NOVATO BRANCH LIBRARY TO OPEN

The new Novato Branch Library at 1720 Novato Boulevard will open on April 15. The new facility will replace the library in the Tresch Triangle. The new 11,000 square foot building was constructed by Fostmeier Construction Co. of Rohnert Park under a $302,500 contract. The county purchased the 1.5 acre site on Novato Boulevard west of Seventh Street for $134,500. Construction was started in February last year. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)





INNER COURT — With the open sky overhead and trees for shade, patrons of the new Novato Library may take books and other reading matter outside to enjoy their reading in this inner court. The court is open to the various sections of the library, giving the rooms the appearance of being part of the outdoors.



AWAITING BOOKS — Empty shelves in the New Novato Library are waiting for the books which they will soon be holding. Designed to hold 60,000 volumes, the shelves will soon be holding the books from the present library in the Tresch Triangle. Librarian Martha Van Etten has urged cardholders to take out many books from the old library and return them to the new library which will open April 15. There will not be any fines for overdue books levied during April, she said.

'Counterfeit Capital' Breaks Bogus Bill Ring

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—U.S. Treasury agents seized a green sea chest containing $1 million in bogus currency during the weekend and said they broke up the 12th major counterfeiting ring found here in the past four months.

Robert E. Powis, chief treasury agent here, said the bills in the latest case were purchased for $25,000 and believed destined for distribution in the New Jersey area.

Powis also said five men were arrested on counterfeiting charges in the latest seizure—bringing to 130 the number of persons in the Los Angeles area taken into custody on such charges since Dec. 1.

This year Los Angeles has become "the counterfeiting capital of the nation," Powis said, with the volume of bogus bills seized "far exceeding" New York and Chicago combined.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Senate Approves 18-Year-Old Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has apparently decided that 18-year-olds are mature enough to vote but still too immature to perform as musicians in saloons.

In back-to-back action Tuesday, senators approved legislation to ratify a proposed U.S. constitutional amendment giving 18-year-olds the vote in all elections, then defeated a bill to let them play music in bars.

On a 22-12 vote the lawmaker sent a ratification resolution by Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, to the Assembly, where a similar measure is pending.

Sen. Clark L. Bradley led the opposition to the proposal arguing it would strip states of the right to set their own election requirements.

Bradley said ratification of the proposed 26th amendment would strike the "crowning blow" to "states rights" in determining voter qualification.

"I'm not in favor of giving 18-year-olds the vote," said Bradley, who two weeks ago voted against a proposed state constitutional amendment lowering the voting age that cleared the Senate and is also pending in the Assembly.

The Senate then defeated, 17-17, a bill by Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, permitting minors to perform in restricted areas of bars where no liquor is sold or consumed.

However, Short received permission from his colleagues to seek another vote on the measure April 13 in order to try for the 21 affirmative ballots required for passage. A similar bill won legislative approval last year but was vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Short argued that permitting young musicians to play in bars "would help unemployment" in California.

Thirty-eight of the 50 states must ratify the amendment before it becomes law.

The U.S. Supreme Court has validated a federal law giving 18-year-olds the vote in national elections. The proposed amendment would extend that franchise to state and local balloting as well.

Legislative experts estimate that there are about 1.5 million Californians who are 18, 19 and 20 years old.

AUTO REPAIRS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Evelle J. Younger said today that he supported legislation which would make California a national leader in the regulation of automotive repair dealers.

With approval of a repair bill authored by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, California "can lead the nation" in such regulation, the state's top law enforcement officer said in a prepared statement.

The measure would provide for inspection of repair dealers and investigation of motorists' complaints. It would set up a state bureau to handle the action.

SAFEGUARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A special legislative committee is drafting legislation designed to safeguard the rights of innocent persons who are arrested and then released, but retain a legal blot on their records.

Chairman Robert W. Crown of the Assembly Select Committee on Administration of Justice told a hearing of his group Tuesday night that the problem is becoming more acute because of increased use of sophisticated computers.

Several witnesses testified about the danger of inaccurate data being filed and the problem of expunging false records.

BUSSING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation has reached the Assembly floor to repeal the controversial law which requires parental consent before a child can be bussed to school.

However, the author of the 1970 antibussing act predicted Gov. Ronald Reagan will veto the repealer even if it does pass the legislature.

Another lawmaker, meanwhile, charged the act was passed last year by legislators who were "politically gutless."

The repealer and two other measures establishing racial and ethnic integration guidelines for school districts, were approved Tuesday by the Assembly Education Committee.

The two guideline bills, which include $2 million to help local districts implement the integration plans, were sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

All measures were approved on split voice votes. No one testified in opposition to them.

POT BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill reducing the maximum penalty for marijuana possession from 10 years to 90 days has been approved by an Assembly committee and sent to the floor despite a protest from police.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was also opposed by a Stanford law professor who called for legalization of the weed.

"This is an attempt to de-escalate the war on marijuana," said professor John Kaplan. "What's needed is a withdrawal." He called the bill "silly" and argued that marijuana should be placed only under the same legal controls as liquor.

But Sieroty's measure was endorsed Tuesday by the Criminal Justice Committee on a split voice vote. It would make marijuana possession a misdemeanor. Presently it is a felony, although judges at their discretion can make it a misdemeanor for first offenders.

This is the fourth year Sieroty has sponsored such legislation, but the first time it has won committee approval.

Present laws were called "fair and realistic" by Division Chief Albert LeBas of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, representing the Peace Officers and District Attorneys associations.

PEERING JUDGE — Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court peers into a hedge which has figured prominently in a long-time feud between two Tiburon couples. At his side is attorney William O. Wesssich, representing one of the couples.

Judge Inspects Site Of The Feuding Neighbors

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday went to a peaceful-looking Tiburon neighborhood to examine a tiny strip of land over which two couples have feuded for more than three years.

Judge Thomas F. Keating had first taken the precaution of saying, "Let's have a truce while I'm down there. I don't want to get caught in the cross fire." He also told the combatants, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Marans and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Green, to stay out of sight during his visit.

The Marans, who live at 2312 Spanish Trail Road, and the Greens, who live below at 2300 Vista Del Mar Lane, have sued each other. Marans and his wife, Violet, are asking the judge to determine a common boundary between the properties and to award them $5,660 in damages.

Green and his wife, Claire, are asking $75,000 for assault and "intentionally caused emotional distress."

Yesterday, as the judge strolled up a path through gardens in spring bloom and then turned to look at the view of Raccoon Straits, it was hard to imagine that there was anything but peace and quiet in the neighborhood.

Marans poked his head around the corner of his house, and his wife appeared for a moment in a picture window, but the Greens's brick-faced house was tightly shuttered while Keating viewed the land in contention — a few inches wide.

After looking at the scene of the feud, which has been highlighted by ripped-out fence posts, mangled vines, strangely pruned hedges, a torn-up tree, flat tires and dog manure, the judge shook his head and returned to court for more testimony.

The Marans and Greens, both pleasant looking and well-dressed couples in their 50s, were ready with stacks of pictures and notes.

Mrs. Marans took the stand to say that the feud actually did not start over Green's desire to build a fence and the question of the property line but when she was a witness against him in municipal court.

"Green has a right as an American citizen to build any kind of a fence he wants," Mrs. Marans said.

There was a "harmonious relationship" between the two couples until Aug. 8, 1967, Mrs. Marans said, telling how the couples used to go boating together.

Their conversation formerly centered around not property lines but mostly was "about television," she said.

On the August date, she said, Green started the feud by telling her "he would never let us forget it if I testified against him."

(Green had been arrested in July 1967 for a traffic offense and was subsequently convicted of resisting arrest. Mrs. Marans testified against him, and said she and her husband also appeared in court later at probation hearings.)

During the most intense period of the feud, Mrs. Marans testified, she received 90 phone calls in three weeks in which there was only breathing at the other end of the line when she answered.

She also said that Green accused her and her husband of "selling hot merchandise" and told them they "ought to move to the Tenderloin where you belong."

"We have never done anything to Mr. Green," Mrs. Marans said sadly, accusing him "of completely altering my life."

Mrs. Marans's sister, Leona Davis of Belvedere, later took the stand to say that Mrs. Marans has been afraid to go outside and garden because of Green. Mrs. Davis added she has had to act as chauffeur for her sister because she didn't want to walk down a path by the Green house to get to her car.

No Complaint Filed On Drug Arrests

No complaint has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against two men arrested on suspicion of drug violations Monday.

Fer Gonsalez, 25, of San Anselmo, and Timothy John Blain, 20, of Fairfax, were arrested after a routine traffic stop in San Rafael. Police said they found what they suspected to be marijuana and peyote in their possession.

San Fernando Valley Hit By Sixth Sharp Temblor

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI) —An early morning earthquake shook the San Fernando Valley area today, the hardest hit in the disastrous Feb. 9 temblor, causing widely scattered damage.

Seismologists at the California Institute of Technology in nearby Pasadena said the jolt came at 6:52 a.m. and measured 3.8 on the Richter scale. They said it was one of hundreds of aftershocks of the February temblor.

Police said the quake, centered in this suburban area north of Los Angeles, knocked out electricity and telephones briefly at the Devonshire Division station.

An elementary school in Northridge was closed following the quake to permit a building inspection.

Numerous windows were broken, and police said they received unconfirmed reports that two fissures were opened in the earth, one in an oil field and another in a residential area.

Heaters were damaged in Porter Ranch area, causing six minor fires. There were also reports of broken or damaged water pipes and collapsed cement block walls.

The jolt was the sixth in the last six days with a reading of more than 3.0.

Novato Plan For Center Submitted

Plans to complete development of the Novak Square Shopping Center, Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue, have been submitted to the Novato Planning Department by H. L. Bryan of Oakland.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the center serving West Novato now has only a supermarket and a gasoline service station.

Tentative plans call for a movie theater and 10 shops, about 77,100 square feet of space, compared to 20,000 square feet at the existing market.

The proposed layout, around the perimeter of the center, includes a drug store, variety store, hardware store, an undesignated store, a doughnut shop, a laundry, dry cleaning shop, barber and beauty shop, a pizza restaurants, and liquor store.

Sentenced To CYA On Stolen Checks

Thomas Wade Ayers, 19, of San Rafael, was sentenced to the California Youth Authority today by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Ayers earlier pleaded guilty in municipal court to three counts of possessing fraudulent checks, stolen from a Belvedere firm Feb. 27.

Lockup Of 1,400 Inmates Continues

A lockup of approximately 1,400 inmates continued today at San Quentin where 14 racial stabbings have resulted in two deaths this month.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said inmates in the east and south blocks will remain locked up until the tension eases. Business as usual continued in the less stormy north and west blocks.

The tight security was ordered yesterday because a white inmate was seriously knifed in the throat late Monday in the east block. Leonard Ambrose, 27, remained in serious condition today at the prison hospital, Park said.

The attack on Ambrose, believed to have resulted from black-white tensions, came a week after prison officials ended the last lockup.

That lockup began March 10 and ended March 22 after more than a week of relative peace. The first 13 stabbings occurred between March 8 and March 13.

Three More File Papers In Petaluma

Three more candidates have filed nomination papers for the June 8 Petaluma municipal election.

Robert E. Daly, appointed to the city council in January, filed for a four-year term. He is a supervisor for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph in San Francisco.

Others previously filing for the city council were William A. Perry Jr. and Richard W. (O.) Clecak.

Daniel B. Plumley, an executive with Frosty Acres Frozen Foods, filed for election to the Petaluma Board of Education. Richard G. Lambert of Rohnert Park has also filed for the board.

James McGovern, who is employed in business administration, filed yesterday for the Petaluma Hospital District board. Dr. Frederick Groverman, Earl W. (Bill) Schneider, Harry S. Nielsen and Wayne S. Davis previously filed for the board.

Filings will close at noon tomorrow. Three four-year terms and a two-year term for the city council will be up, as well as two seats on the board of education and two seats on the hospital board.

Cyclist Receives A Cut Forehead

Carl O. Smith, 21, of 1290 Leafwood Drive, Novato, suffered a cut forehead yesterday when his motorcycle veered off Canyon Road, west of Hill Road, into a ditch, Novato police reported.

Smith's westbound motorcycle toppled into the ditch while rounding a curve at 2:30 p.m., officers reported. Smith was treated at Novato General Hospital.

SAN RAFAEL 375 THIRD STREET — TERRA LINDA 950 LAS GALLINAS

$31,500 Approved For Gala Opening

The Marin County Board of Supervisors authorized $31,500 yesterday for a gala champagne opening of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and then began discussing how to get it back. (Another supervisor story, page 1.)

Under the proposal submitted by Leon Kalimos, executive director of the auditorium, opening night tickets would sell for $12.50. Thus if the house is packed, the county can expect a return of about $23,750 or a net loss of $7,750, he said.

The board listened cooly to his proposal and then suggested a few of its own ranging from installation of portable bars to charging critics — traditional opening night freeloaders — the same as anyone else.

After lengthy discussion, the board directed Kalimos to investigate increasing the price of tickets to $15 and to submit his "guest list" to the board for trimming.

If the auditorium is filled at $15 per ticket, the board figured, the county would clear $2,000.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

REORGANIZATION — Set May 18 for a meeting with staff to discuss the proposed reorganization of the health and medical delivery departments placing them under Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county medical officer.

ELECTIONS — Received from the Marin County Grand Jury recommendation calling for four evenly spaced election dates to be set by the board each July to consolidate elections thus reducing costs.

CONSULTANT — Approved on a 4-to-1 vote, Chairman Louis H. Baar against, the payment of $30 per hour for a consultant from Brown and Caldwell to appear at the septic tank ordinance hearing scheduled for April 6.

CAFETERIA — Approved a recommendation that the county waive a $25,000 performance bond required of the new Civic Center cafeteria operators, Civic Center Caterers. A $5,000 cash deposit remains in force. The action was asked because of excessive cost of premiums on the bond.

ARCHITECTS — Tabled discussion on a proposal that future architectural contracts be negotiated with maximum limits on actual dollar costs.

AQUEDUCT — Invited William R. Seeger of Marin Municipal Water District to attend next Tuesday's meeting to explain how the district plans to finance the Sonoma-Marin aqueduct. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said the water district had promised to use the bond election method but is now apparently seeking legislation to get around the bond election.

DISASTER PLAN — Put off until next week a discussion of the county's plan to meet earthquakes and other disasters. Vernon W. Humber of Kentfield, who charged that the county has no disaster plan, asked for a delay because he could not attend yesterday's meeting.

APPOINTMENTS — Named Arrigoni to succeed William A. Gnoss on the Bay Area Pollution Control District board; and Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste to succeed Arrigoni on the Local Agency Formation Commission.

COMMENDATION — On a motion by Baptiste, voted a resolution commending Mayor Douglas M. Merrill of Novato, who resigned last week after seven years on the city council.

REEDRIDGE — Decided that the 28-acre Reedridge Subdivision unit 1, planned in the hills above Bel Aire, should be levied $1,000 extra as its contribution toward the Bel Aire Flood Control drainage improvement plan. Roderick P. Martinelli, attorney for Reedridge, said the flood control advisory board was trying to levy about $35,000 on the 28 acres.

HAMILTON FIELD — Decided to ask Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, to defer until May a proposed invitation to county officials, forwarded by the county aviation commission, to meet in Washington, D.C., to discuss possible joint civilian military use of Hamilton Air Force Base. The supervisors wanted to pick a time that would not interfere with their regular meeting schedule.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — Rejected 3-2, supervisors Michael Wornum and Baptiste losing, a federally funded family planning program which would have required county responsibility for management. Some $82,000 in federal money would have been divided between the county economic opportunity council and the Planned Parenthood Association, the association to be a subcontractor of the county health department in providing services. Such as a full-time social worker, to perform pregnancy counseling and abortion referral, four community workers, a mobile unit and transportation, baby-sitting and training funds.

STRAWBERRY COVE — Defeated 3-2 a move by Arrigoni and second by Wornum to return the controversial Strawberry Cove Apartments plan to the county planning commission for rezoning in order to chop density from 102 units to 68. Arrigoni argued unsuccessfully that he erred in voting to approve the higher density when the matter was before the supervisors last year. The majority felt the board should stand by an approval granted after more than 10 hearings. The development by Paul J. Broman of Peacock Gap on 6.8 acres owned by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere is before the Bay Conservation and Development Commission for approval.

'Mikado' On Tap At Day School

"The Mikado" will be presented at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow by the eighth grade at the Marin Country Day School, Corte Madera.

This will be the 11th annual production of a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta under the direction of Bary Mineah.

Sets were designed by Tom Quin and constructed by pupils and parents.

Free Space For Charity Groups

Free space will be made available to charity organizations at the flea market known as Pot Pourri Market on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, according to the market's management.

The charity groups will be scheduled so only one fund raising drive is going on each weekend.

Interested groups may get in touch with Dennis Monahan or Arlene Atkinson by writing to Pot Pourri, Box 435, Novato.

New Policy On Center Evacuations

No evacuation order will be issued on routine bomb threats against the Civic Center buildings, but each department will be notified by telephone so that employees can leave the building if they want.

This policy change was disclosed yesterday by the sheriff's department, which called all county employees for a series of meetings today to explain the new policy.

Two weeks ago, the sheriff and the county administrator announced that routine telephoned bomb threats would be ignored, and no alert issued. This brought a series of complaints from employees, who charged that no one has the right to toy with the lives of employees by withholding information of bomb threats.

OUTLINE POLICY

Sgt. Weldon Travis and Sgt. William Keaton of the sheriff's security force explained the new policy yesterday.

If suspicious object or ticking mechanism is located the building will be evacuated. Also, if a telephoned threat is substantiated by other intelligence information, the building will be cleared. "We're not going to fool with your lives," said Sergeant Travis. "We're not playing God."

On a simple telephone threat, not substantiated by intelligence information or physical evidence, the sheriff will notify all departments by group alert (an automatic telephoning system). This will be an advisory type of call, with each employee free to continue working or to leave the building.

Those who choose to remain at work will be asked to make a quick check of the work area for any suspicious objects, and if all appears in order, that department will notify the sheriff.

BEST METHOD

The sergeant explained that a quick search by every department is more efficient because department workers know what objects belong on every shelf and desk. Security officers scurrying around from department to department would require several days to make a complete check of each lunch box, thermos bottle, tape recorder and other office equipment in each department, Travis explained.

The deputies said that the county decided not to order mass evacuation on every telephoned threat because a prankster with a roll of dimes could call every hour and put the entire Civic Center out of business.

'Sounding Board' Topic Announced

Candidates for the Sausalito Elementary School District board will be interviewed by Kitty Oppenheimer at 9 a.m. Thursday on radio station KTIM's Marin Sounding Board."

Questions about problems facing the school district can be telephoned into the station during the live Thursday broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape recording at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Vying for two board seats in the April 20 election are incumbent Delta Christ, Dr. Warren K. Hansen, and Sandra Marshall all of Sausalito and Lillie M. Hill of Marin City.

Indiscriminate Motorcyclist Has Wind Taken Out Of Sail

A new ordinance aimed at the indiscriminate motorcycle rider who tears up Marin hillsides was unanimously approved yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

On a motion by John F. McInnis, the supervisors passed an ordinance that bans motorcycles from all property in the unincorporated area except on public roads and on ranches where the county planning commission has granted a use permit for motorbikes. It will take effect in 30 days.

Ranch owners and their tenants will be allowed to ride motorcycles on their own property.

Violators will be subject to $50 fine, a month in jail, or both.

At the insistance of Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, the supervisors also voted to create a 10-man ad hoc committee to see if suitable sites are available for use by the growing number of motorcycle and minibike enthusiasts. Two will be selected from each of the five supervisorial districts, with representatives from motorcycle groups, the motorcycle industry, youth, and recreation interests.

Baptiste said the ad hoc committee could also study how to control noise and erosion.

Merle Greenblat, owner of Marin Motor Sports in San Rafael; and Gerald Diaz, president of the Marin Motorcycle Association, declared that members of the motorcycle association take extreme precaution to follow safety rules. They said motorcyclists have as much right as horsemen, golfers, or hunters to enjoy their favorite sport. They said a new ordinance is superfluous because existing laws can control those who create nuisances.

Supervisor McInnis explained that the ordinance is not aimed at motorcycle club members who ride only indisignated areas and cause no problem.

He said the ordinance is to cut down on indiscriminate riders who seem bent on deliberate destruction, chasing animals on the open hillsides and using bolt cutters to cut through fences.

Danny Davies of San Rafael, a motorcycle repairman, denied that motorcycle club members ever carry bolt cutters. "We don't cut fences," said Davies. "We can push our bikes under wire fences. It's the horse riders and the dune buggy riders who cut fences."

This brought a rebuttal from young woman who identified herself as "a horse person." She said she is concerned about trespassers who ride through private property tearing up the terrain. "When you say you can push your motorcycle under the fence, why do you think the fence is there in the first place?" she asked.

February Crime Count At 156

Petaluma police report investigating 154 major crimes during the month of February, 49 more than the 105 investigated in February of 1970 and 98 more than the 56 in 1969.

Major offenses reported last month included three aggravated assaults with two solved, 24 burglaries with six solved, six auto thefts with three solved, 51 thefts over $50 in value and 70 thefts under $50 with 23 of them solved.

Police investigated 10 injury accidents and issued 233 moving traffic citations.

Royal Snub For Hot Pants Fad

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have cast their votes against the latest trend in women's fashions—hot pants.

"They're not so hot," the duchess said as she and her husband arrived in New York enroute to a spring vacation in fashionable Palm Beach, Fla.

Kindergarten Registering Set

Kindergarten registration for the 1971-72 school year will be held at Novato elementary schools from April 15 through May 14, Edward F. Dolan, publications director, reported today.

To be eligible for the forthcoming kindergarten classes, a child must be 5 years of age on or before Dec. 1, 1971.

Parents can register children at the elementary school nearest their home anytime during the school day. They should bring the child's birth certificate, but need not bring the child, Dolan said.

Sex Education Courses Making The Transition

Sex education in the schools — controversial stuff a few years ago — is taking its place with reading, writing and arithmetic.

That fact of life was indicated last night in informational reports to the San Rafael Board of Education.

William O'Bayley, health education teacher at Terra Linda High School, said that two health courses are offered at schools, as required by state law. One course includes "family life" education and one doesn't, and parents are given a choice of which course their children take.

Ninety-three per cent of the parents have chosen the course including family life education, O'Bayley said.

The percentage is less at San Rafael High School where — Nora Cornette, a home economics teacher, reported — about two-thirds of the ninth-graders are taking the family life health course.

In describing the family life program to the board, O'Bayley said it is not a semester "talking about sex."

He said course discussion subjects include the young individual, the society he lives in, the society his parents grew up in and the society he hopes to build in the future.

"We're trying to get them aware of what's around them and what's in this society, whether they like this society or not," he said.

Regarding sex education itself, O'Bayley said "we're not trying to take over the role of the parent; we're trying to supplement the role of the parent."

He said he didn't care what was going on at the Marin County Health Department, whose personnel have variously reported and denied a venereal disease epidemic in the county, "but we do have a venereal disease epidemic in the state of California."

Mrs. Cornette said questions asked by high school girls have changed in the last few years.

Several years ago, she said, they wanted to know all about wedding invitations, engagement parties and receptions.

Now they ask, "How do I get to Reno?" she said.

Marilyn Juncker, the district's school nurse coordinator, said that one problem with the overall family life program has been a state law requiring schools to advise parents before hand of what matters will be discussed and allowing parents to review materials before they are used in the classroom.

She said a bill now in the state Senate may remove the requirement.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

BICYCLES — Directed Supt. John F. Plank to report April 13 on possible solutions to the theft of bicycles at San Rafael schools. The move was at the request of Norma Osborne, mother of two San Rafael High School students, who said bicycle stealing had become an "increasingly thriving business."

PETITION — Accepted a petition with about 100 signatures expressing confidence in the administration and faculty of Santa Venetia Middle School. The petition was in response to reported criticism of the school's staff for failing to attend a March 9 meeting on plans for the school.

CONSTRUCTION — Approved a change order adding an outdoor classroom area to the Laurel Dell School construction project for an additional $3,800.

READING — Received a report indicating that San Rafael students tested in 1969-70 ranked above norms set by test publishers and above the state average in reading tests, and directed district staff to pinpoint problem areas in the district reading program.

REPORT — Received recommendations for increased vocational education opportunities and counseling from the vocational subcommittee of the district's citizens advisory committee.

SUPPLIES — Accepted successful bids from seven firms totaling $29,661 for purchase of general school and office supplies.

GIFTS — Accepted with thanks: leather donated by Tak, Inc., of San Francisco; six paintings by Amy Flemming donated by Dr. Barbara DeWolf of Goleta, Santa Barbara County; 300 pounds of galvanized iron pieces donated by Jim Allen; books donated by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Featherstone, Dr. and Mrs. John H. Jolly and the Camp Fire Girls Group Wa-Sun-Ya, and a one-year subscription to the San Francisco Bay Guardian donated by Mr. and Mrs. Joel Goldstein.

APPOINTMENTS — Hired Douglas Mason and Wayne Morgon as substitute bus drivers at $3.04 an hour and Tom Geraghty, Susan Connelly and Sue Pehl as adult education teachers at $8 an hour.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Paula Caldwell, second grade teacher at Sun Valley School; Roy von Kleist, district driver education teacher; Elizabeth Camporelli, San Rafael High School cafeteria assistant retiring after 12 years service; Harold Carter, driver training teacher retiring after 34 years; Tony Jurick, Terra Linda High School custodian, retiring after 15 years, and Thelma Moldt, Sun Valley School teacher retiring after 24 years service.

Novatan Hurt In Car Mishap

A 49-year-old Novato woman was injured at 2:44 p.m. yesterday when her car struck the rear of another auto on the North San Pedro Road entrance to Highway 101 in San Rafael, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Rae E. Beaudoin of 581 Fernando Road was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut chin and tongue, a broken tooth and fractured ribs.

The highway patrol said her car struck the rear of an auto operated by Golena Bailey, 58, of Vallejo, which had stopped on the access ramp.

100-Year-Old's Day In Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—At age 100, Harold Dobbs is going to get his day in court.

The state court of appeal Tuesday ordered reinstatement of Dobbs' damage suit against his landlord in Santa Cruz County. The decision overturned a lower court ruling tossing out the case.

Dobbs is suing Charles P. Hagerty for raising his rent from $64 to $85 a month last year and then causing him "to become nervous and sick in spirit and body by yelling at me, threatening me and demanding that I leave the premises."

Sen. Thurmond Becomes Father

"The baby is beautiful and appears to be very healthy," said Thurmond.

Mrs. Thurmond, a former Miss South Carolina, is "doing fine." The baby will be named later.

Wine Punch Welcomes Spring

Cool white wine and strawberries are a springtime combination, which flavored with sweet woodruff, has centuries of tradition behind it.

May Wine Bowl is the name of this fresh-tasting punch. Its origins are Germanic, but its appeal is universal. A clear bowl of chilled May Wine, crowned with a wreath of fresh strawberries, and often with fresh flowers, is a wonderful way to welcome warm weather and a perfect excuse for a party.

One of California's fragrant white wines is the base for this bright salute to spring. Rhine wine or another white dinner wine from California's sunny vineyards provides a fresh fruity flavor to match the mood of the punch. A half-gallon jug is just the right size for this recipe — and especially economical — although two fifth size bottles provide an adequate quantity.

For the characteristic subtle spiciness of May Wine Bowl, a few sprigs of sweet woodruff (available fresh at nurseries or dried at pharmacies) are steeped for an hour in half the white wine. Then out comes the woodruff and in goes the rest of the white wine, along with some simple sugar syrup. If locating woodruff turns out to be a problem, a combination of cloves and mint will apprxoimate the flavor.

JUST BEFORE serving, a cold bottle of California champagne adds its springy sparkle to the chilled bowl of punch.

Sugared strawberry halves or other fruits in season can also go into the bowl shortly before serving. Or garland the bowl with whole sugar-dipped berries or cubes of fresh fruit so that guests can add them to their glasses as they choose.

AN HERBY chicken liver pate is an ideal flavor foil for May Wine Bowl and its accompanying fruit. California vermouth contributes to the herby quality, along with powdered rosemary. This party delicacy is an easy do-ahead for a busy hostess.

Sherried Cheese Wafers are another something-special for this spring party. They're crisp and buttery, delicious with May Wine. An added advantage — they keep beautifully in an air-tight container, so can be prepared a few days ahead.

MAY WINE BOWL

(Makes 20 four-oz. servings)

1 small bunch of sweet woodruff (6 sprigs of fresh mint and 6 crushed whole cloves)
½ gallon California Rhine or other white dinner wine, chilled
2 tablespoons simple syrup or sugar to taste
2 cups halved, sugared strawberries
Ice
1 bottle (4/5 qt.) California champagne, chilled

Place woodruff (or mint and cloves) in a glass punch bowl and pour in half of the Rhine wine. Steep at least one hour, then remove flavorings and pour in remaining Rhine wine. Add simple syrup (equal parts sugar and water) or sugar to taste. Stir well. Just before serving, add fresh strawberries, a block of ice or several trays of ice cubes, and pour in chilled champagne. Float some flowers such as violets or violas on top, and add additional fresh mint leaves, if desired.

VERMOUTH LIVER PATE

(Makes about 2 cups)

1 pound chicken livers
1 teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon powdered rosemary
½ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon flour
¼ cup butter
¾ cup California dry vermouth

Rinse and drain chicken livers. Dredge with seasonings mixed with flour. Saute to a rich golden brown in melted butter. Add ½ cup Vermouth; cover and simmer until livers are tender. Remove from heat, add remaining Vermouth and cool. Puree or blend in an electric blender until smooth. Cover and refrigerate several hours to mellow flavors.

SHERRIED CHEESE WAFERS

(Makes 16 wafers)

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup yellow corn meal
½ teaspoon salt
Generous dask white pepper
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
⅓ cup California dry sherry
Melted butter or margarine

Combine flour, corn meal, salt and pepper. Cut in butter until consistency of fine meal. Add cheese and sherry, and mix well. Shape into a ball, and cut in quarters. Cut each wedge into 4 smaller ones, and shape each into a small ball. On lightly floured board, roll each to a paper thin, irregular circle. Place on lightly greased baking sheet, and brush lightly with butter. Bake at 400 degrees for about 6 minutes, just until edges are lightly browned. Remove to wire racks to cool. Store in tightly covered tin.

CELEBRATE SPRINGTIME with a May Wine Bowl in the old world tradition with a now appeal. Both California Rhine Wine and California champagne contribute their bright flavors to this party punch with strawberries.

AN AROMATIC glaze of apple sauce with curry and a few decorative touches before serving make this ham pleasing to both eye and palate.

Apple Curry Glazed Ham Is Another Salute To Spring

Spring is here and with the first forsythia and pussy willow blossoms, we start to think of new food ideas to serve.

New doesn't have to mean exotic or even complicated. The best new recipe may be a simple twist of an old one or cooking foods together that you would normally serve together anyway, as with Apple Curry Glazed Ham.

For the simple twist, curry powder was stirred into apple sauce. Since apple sauce is often served with ham, why not bake them together? You'll find that just the aroma of curry and apple baking with the ham is enough to draw a crowd. And the lovely glazed effect makes this perfect for family or company.

Flavor is an important consideration in a recipe, but making the food look attractive improves the appetite, too. After removing from the oven, it takes just a minute to add fruit slices and a cherry on the top and toasted coconut around the sides.

Serve with the remaining heated curried apple sauce, candied sliced yams and a pitcher of limeade for a new spring meal.

APPLE CURRY GLAZED HAM

2 cups apple sauce
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 canned ham, about 3 pounds
Apricot halves, cut in slices
Maraschino cherries
Toasted coconut

Mix apple sauce and curry powder. Place ham in shallow baking pan. Spoon about half of the apple sauce over top and sides. Heat ham as directed on can. Garnish with apricot halves, cherries and toasted coconut. Place on serving platter. Heat remaining apple sauce; serve with ham. Serve with baked yams. Makes 8 servings.

Producer-Director Also Helps Kids Put On 'Mikado'

By PAT BALMES

Marin Country Day School has a real television producer-director as chairman for the eighth grade's production of "The Mikado", which will be presented tonight and tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the school in Corte Madera.

She is Mrs. Bruce Duncan of San Francisco, a former remedial reading teacher at the school and the mother of John Duncan, 13, and Michael Duncan, 9, who are students at Marin Country Day School.

All costumes, sets and makeup for the Gilbert and Sullivan musical are being done by parents.

Virginia Duncan was graduated from the University of Michigan. As a speech correction teacher she started a nursery school for deaf and hard of hearing children in connection with the Speech and Hearing Center at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco.

She started work at television station KQED in 1960 as a volunteer production assistant "and gradually worked my way into being a parttime producer-director." As a producer of both live television programs and films, she originates ideas and carries them through.

KQED HAS three or four other women producers, most of them parttime, according to Virginia. They try to limit themselves to two and a half days a week, but are seldom able to, she says.

"Our station is so busy that you have to work strange hours sometimes," Virginia says, remarking on a drug program she had to edit between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m.

"I love to see if an assignment will work. I like producing even if it is exhausting. Often there is overtime," says Virginia, who has thrived on outside activity since her college days when she served in student government.

The producer likes to work at home, sometimes interviewing personalities or listening to tapes for her films.

"WHEN MY children reach a certain age, they like the fact that I am able to meet interesting people," the mother remarks.

For nine years Virginia worked primarily on "Profile Bay Area," a weekly public affairs program hosted by Casper Weinberger, now Director of the Budget in Washington, D.C. The subject was different each week; a live television controversy between people of differing points of view."

In 1964 Virginia received the Edward McQuade Award for her "Profile Bay Area" three hour program on the Free speech movement at the University of California.

She won a National Educational Television award in 1966 for her public affairs production called "Aftermath," about Hunter's Point.

"During the discussion on job possibilities for minorities in San Francisco emotions ran so high that we had a near riot right there in the studio, but we kept it on the air," she remembers.

VIRGINIA SINGS and plays the guitar which inspired a video-tape series on folk guitar lessons with instructor Laura Weber. They wrote a book from their material in 1965 called "Folk Guitar." It sold a thousand copies the first day it was on sale and 300,000 to date.

"Ascent," Virginia's film on mountain climbing won the CINE Award in 1970 and was selected to be shown in international festivals. It was partially financed by Readers Digest Foundation Award to public television producers.

"Profile Bay Area" left the air in the winter of 1970.

"We thought it was the oldest living program next to Captain Kangaroo," Virginia jokes.

NOW THE producer is making films for KQED. She has just returned from five days in the snows of Yosemite where she filmed a half hour film, "Ski Touring," not yet shown on television. Two United States cross-country skiing team champions, Jim Speck and Ned Gillete, demonstrate ski touring and a cross-country race. Other parts of the film show snow camping.

"It was strenuous," says Virginia. "We rode a 'cat' and took our skis. Then we packed in cameras and camping equipment on our backs."

Group Fighting The Midi Claims Win And Disbands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FADD will close its doors April 1, the victor in its Fight Against Dictating Designers.

Later it may search for greener pastures. For instance, some women long for a return of high-heeled, pointed-toe pumps, while others promise they will never abandon the low-heeled, round-toed shoes. This problem might merit consideration.

But for the moment Mrs. Doris S. Sweeney, FADD's executive vice president and chief spokesman, is reveling over the defeat of designers who tried in vain to make the midi skirt the fashion news of the early 1970s.

SHE SAID more than 1,000 women in the Washington area paid $1 dues, and others helped spread the word that fashion designers could not bully them into lowering their hems.

In 1970, FADD joined the battle for freedom of choice in women's fashions. On a sunny spring day they paraded through downtown Washington waving banners and posters proclaiming their right to choose the length of dresses they bought.

They staged a hem-cutting ceremony, persuading a sweet young thing to sacrifice her stylishly long skirt to the cause of a shorter length.

They asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate a trade publication which FADD contended overstepped its function in its promotion of midi lengths.

They said Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., had launched an investigation of the garment industry.

BUT AN FTC spokesman said he doubted the commission would take any action in the matter, and a Hart staff member said investigation disclosed no cause for Cbngressional action.

She emphasized that her fight against mid-calf skirts should not cast her in the role of champion of the micro-mini, or even just the mini. She said she is at "a grandmother's age" and likes to wear her skirts at about the knee.

"THAT'S THE way I'll wear them no matter what the designers do," she said.

She does not plan to take up hot pants, a variation of the micro-mini, reminiscent of short-shorts of the 1930s and '40s but more form fitting.

Joan Kennedy, wife of the Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, was photographed in brocaded hot pants only slightly concealed by a slit skirt. That's fine for Mrs. Kennedy and anyone else who likes the costume, according to Mrs. Sweeney, but not for her.

Reports circulated through the Capitol that a pretty unidentified girl working in an unidentified Senator's office came to work in hot pants. A cursory investigation failed to locate her, though an aide (male) said, "wouldn't it be great."

Meat Institute Urges Adoption Of New Dating Code For Products

CHICAGO — A simplified four-digit code for dating consumer packaged, manufactured meat products has been recommended by the American Meat Institute for immediate adoption by the nation's meat processing industry.

Under the new code, approved by the AMI board of directors representing a majority of the nation's meat processors, firms will date their products with four digits, the first two indicating the month and the last two indicating the day. Thus, the digits 0101 would indicate Jan. 1, 0315 would indicate March 15, and 1130 would indicate Nov. 30.

This new code replaces the "AMI Meat Code" adopted in 1961. The old code also used four digits, but its meaning was little understood by consumers because the first and last digits added together indicated the month and the two middle digits represented the day.

The new open dating code has been adopted to help simplify retailer control of products and to enable consumers readily to identify dates on packages of meat products. The AMI recommended that open dating apply to all products with the exception of private label items, canned meats and bone-in hams.

The institute urged packers and processors to adopt the new open dating approach in order to establish and maintain a standard coding system in place of the present multiplicity of codes.

Under the plan, individual companies may find it helpful to indicate on the package whether the open numerical date is the date of packing or the quality assurance date.

For example, some processors will undoubtedly use date of manufacture. Other processors, having different distribution methods, may use some forward date to represent a quality assurance date to the consumer. The processors, having different distribution methods, may use some forward date to represent a quality assurance date to the consumer. The processor, at his own discretion, may include qualifying words to indicate what the date represents or the need for proper refrigeration.

An inherent weakness of any dating system is that it deals only with "time," and time is not the only, or even the most important, factor determining product quality to the consumer. Temperature maintenance of perishable products, for example, is much more important than time. There must be proper inventory management, rapid distribution and appropriate handling of all products, especially with respect to temperature.

What About The Person Who Can't Stand To See Others Succeed?

DEAR HELEN:

We read a lot about jealousy between the sexes, but how about the "put-downer" who can't bear to see a friend get something new, or achieve in any way?

I call this one Madam Green Eyes. She is the one who:

Says, "Oh, I have that and never use it!" when someone displays a new gadget for the kitchen — perhaps a gift from her child who has spent his whole allowance on it.

Seeing a relative's new dress or jewelry, shrugs, "I had something like that last year. It's kicking around the house, but I never wear it any more."

Exclaims, "Where are you going to wear that?" when you design an unusual creation; or "A friend who is just learning to sew made a dress just like it."

Is thin, but talks about going on a diet in the presence of anyone who is overweight.

Says, "I hate long hair . . the wet look . . . pink lipstick . . . purple, etc." when the gal sitting next to her may very well be wearing one or more of these items.

Can do without vacations (as dull and boring) the moment someone is asked about hers.

Makes it seem like bragging when people are happily telling about a wonderful event in their lives. She can never be sincerely thrilled about anyone else's good fortune.

Remarks, "Your dress is nice, but I could never wear that color or material, etc. . ."

Can't bear to see her husband get a compliment, so she demolishes him with those mean, cutting anecdotes about his stupidity.

DEAR AG:

A kind description: Insecure. Not feeling especially kind today, I'll settle for covetous cat. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I always looked forward to your Helping Hand items and wrote to each shut-in you mentioned. It gives your readers a chance to reach out and touch people, long distance, and I know from the occasional answers I received that our letters were the biggest happening — a sort of miracle — to persons the world had almost forgotten. How about another Helping Hand item? — READER-WRITER

DEAR READERS:

There's a woman in Southern California to whom mail call is life's greatest event — and sometimes the most disappointing. Severe arthritis has confined her to a wheelchair. She is never without pain, yet she remains cheerful and determined to "get around" the best she can. This has resulted in several bad falls, the last breaking bones that nearly immobilized her. She is divorced, the mother of two grown children, and living on welfare. But she can still laugh.

A friend writes that a flood of letters to this 47-year-old would be "just about the most wonderful thing she could imagine. She's thrilled at the prospect of receiving all that mail, though she can't answer everyone because sometimes her hands and arms won't work." She is MRS. LORRAINE NA PIER, 113 Genoa Street, Apt. C, Arcadia, Calif., 91006. Please write to her. — H.

Power Of Cash Neglected In Cutting Living Costs

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Countless consumers are neglecting the power of using cash to avoid credit charges and reduce prices they pay.

Many would probably be horrified to know that they could save from 4 to 36 per cent on many purchases by paying cash instead of relying on credit.

According to some recent government surveys, approximately one out of every three persons doesn't have any accurate idea of how much he pays for credit.

THE PROPORTION was twice as high before the "Truth-in-Lending" law required lenders and credit merchants to disclose true annual interest rates. In almost every case, buyers thought they were paying less than they actually were.

Retail credit alone may add 18 per cent to the price you pay for goods and services. That is 12 times the monthly charge of 1½ per cent, the rate charted by most stores after the initial grace period of 25 or 30 days.

But the actual percentage may creep up to 36 per cent a year if the store, like many today, bases its interest charge on the "previous" or "beginning" balance rather than the final month-end balance after payments and returns are credited to the account.

The higher rate comes from the fact that interest is charged on some amounts paid or credited during the month.

THE CHEAPEST way to use a charge account, of course, is to pay everything within the grace period. You can double this grace period by buying at the beginning of a billing period, then waiting nearly to the end of the following grace period before paying.

You may think that 18 per cent is high but few merchants would agree. Most of them contend that they can't make money on their credit operations. So many are now campaigning to raise the rate to 24 per cent a year.

Thus, consumers face the prospect of still further increases in credit costs even while rates for personal and business loans drop.

At the same time, opportunities for paying cash are dwindling as the credit binge grows. The use of bank credit cards alone more than doubled in the past year, says the Federal Reserve System.

CASH PURCHASERS thus pay a hidden penalty because merchants must pay from 4 to 8 per cent of sales to credit card firms. Cash purchasers help finance the cost of credit services because the price is the same to all.

It would seem logical for merchants to grant an equivalent discount to cash purchasers, but few do so. Why not?

One reason is that large merchants are geared almost completely for credit sales; making exceptions would be more costly than it would be wroth. Larger stores also pay the lowest rates for credit card service. And their contracts usually prohibit them from granting cash discounts.

Perhaps the biggest reason, however, is the lack of any real demand for discounts from cash buyers. The best chance for them lies with smaller merchants.

Many of them are not happy about having to pay up to 8 per cent for credit card service.

But they are not likely to volunteer with cash discounts — at least not until they are asked. And even that is not very likely in today's credit atmosphere. The idea rarely occurs to the average buyer.

Women Welcome In Franchising

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One area where women never have known anything but equal opportunity is in franchising.

So says an expert on this type of sales — Sandy Alexander, a tiny blonde. Miss Alexander has written a paperback manual "Franchising and You," which tells everyone — yes, the men get advice too — what should be known if one considers getting into this burgeoning, $100 billion a year business.

"Ladies are welcome in this zooming industry and accepted without question or prejudice as hard-working members of the franchise team," Miss Alexander says.

"OF COURSE, most women won't want to open a Midas Muffler shop. But one franchisee, House of Nine, actually discriminates against men. It will sell its dress shop franchises only to women.

"Age is also no barrier to success in franchising. Mature judgment and experience are considered an asset."

Alexander feels women are peculiarly suited to running a franchise "because they seldom lose their cool. They are patient with customeers even if they aren't making sale right then. And that customer will come back."

Miss Alexander said during the three years she was women's editor of the "Franchise Journal" she received numerous requests for a guide book on franchising. She already had written several how-to books, including "How to Raise Your Own Mink Coat" and "How to Make the Most of Your Own Potential."

HER BOOK, now being used as a text in business course at the University of Arizona, emphasizes how important it is for would-be franchisers "to investigate before they invest."

"Franchising is not for everyone," she warns. "Just putting up the money and liking it is not enough. "You have to be willing to work harder than you've ever worked for anyone else."

Miss Alexander says "there is a franchise for almost anything."

"Once you find the one you want, ask the people who are already in it about it. Watch them at all hours of the day or night, and see if you can take it. Even if you have to fly 500 or 1,000 miles to the nearest one, it is worth it. Because you have to be happy with a business to do well with it.

"AND NEVER, never sign a contract without consulting a competent lawyer.

"Nine out of 10 new businesses fail, but only one in nine franchises fail, because a franchise is a way of being in business for yourself, but not by yourself. If you have a problem, the franchisee will send in an expert to help you. You also have the advantage of mass purchasing.

"Ethical franchise organizations have a stake in seeing you succeed, because nobody wants to be associated with failure," she said.

Irreverent Take-Off On TV Campaigning

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — There's a chilling quality to "The Selling of the President" which had its world premier last night at the Geary Theater.

As a multi-media musical vaudeville based loosely on the best-seller of the same name by Joe McGinniss, it shows that if properly packaged, a presidential candidate can be as easily sold via television to John Q. Voter as dishwashers, razor blades and new cars.

And there's the chilling factor: it has and will happen again. If the musical, presented jointly by the American Conservatory Theater and John Flaxman, is a fair indictment of Madison Avenue techniques, then we have become "mediaized."

Far from being strained, "Selling" has so much going that at times it boggles the mind. Its approach is like the rock-musical "Hair" — zestful and irreverent. And most of it comes off very well. But if it intends to achieve a successful fall Broadway opening for its backers, heavy editing is needed.

Certain material (spoken) needs to be tossed out, especially the reference to Mamie Eisenhower. While the lines may draw laughter, they poke too much fun at the human foibles of a noted and revered personality still alive.

With revisions, it should be an excellent musical satire for pre-election year enjoyment.

The setting is 1976 and the TV blitz campaign of George Mason for the presidency. Not so far fetched as might be, the author has 16-year-olds voting and all balloting by telephone computers. The climactic ending — "the first assassination of a president on live television" — fits perfectly into the scheme of things in the musical which is presented without intermission.

As Mason, Peter Donat is ideal as that "solid middle-American" with his all-American wife, Gracie, executed in matronly fashion by Joy Carlin, and their children, John Quincy and Mary Todd and the unseen family dog, Martha.

Enter next the political media team of Irene Jantzen (Michael Learned), Ted Bacon (Josef Sommer), Ward Nichols (Scott Thomas) and Walter (Joseph Bird) with their special campaign brew. And all four are uniformly good.

The musical segment then comes alive with haunting ballads, rock music, campaign songs and witty TV commercials.

The music and lyrics by Bob James and Jack O'Brien serve as a perfect vehicle for The American Flag — the chorus which supplies the awareness. The pair has given vocalist Ann Weldon a couple of songs, "Take My Hand" and "He's A Man," which clearly match the singer's excellent style.

Also "Little Moon," featuring Light Brown and Nancy Blossom, both members of the San Francisco production of "Hair," should be a good single hit.

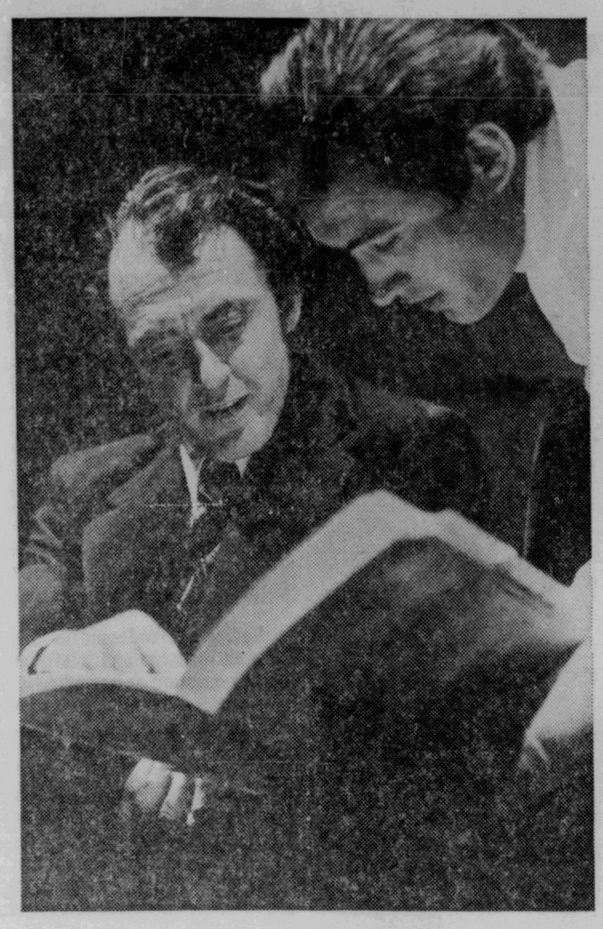
The big production numbers have an evangelistic flavor reminiscent of the moral disarmament sing-outs of several years ago.

A show stopper is G. Wood's "Captain Terror" urging the kiddies out in TV land to tell their parents to vote for Mason or they will be turned into little green frogs.

And William Paterson as Norman Billy Emerson is too close to the real thing — a familiar evangelist and adviser to presidents — but piously funny anyway. Martin Berman as Marty (Smiles) Faranghetti — the TV funnyman — adds a lot of sparkle.

Director Ellis Rabb, who has also guided this season's highly acclaimed "The Merchant of Venice" for ACT, has gotten a consistently swinging pace from the ensemble, save for a little slowness in "The Demographic Sequence," and the "Make Contact" routines. It seems the production runs out of steam near the end.

"THE SELLING OF THE PRESIDENT" — A musical vaudeville (world premiere) presented by the American Conservatory Theater and John Flaxman. Directed by Ellis Rabb; suggested by Joe McGinniss's book; stage script, Stuart Hample; music and lyrics, Bob James and Jack O'Brien; scenery, lighting and still projections, James Tilton; costumes, Elizabeth Covey; musical director, Vaughn Aubrey; orchestrations and choral arrangements, Bob James; sound, Charles Richmond; associate director, Jack O'Brien; film sequences, American Zoetrope; film director, Michael Jackson. The cast: The American Flag: Carolyn Blakey, Nancy Blossom, Light Brown; Michael Cavanaugh, Jeff Chandler, John Hancock, Lee McCain, Deborah Sussel, Ann Weldon, Mark Wheeler, G. Wood; Irene Jantzen, Michael Learned; Ted Bacon, Josef Sommer; Ward Nichosl, Scott Thomas; Walter, Joseph Bird; George Mason, Peter Donatn; Gracie Mason, Joy Carlin; Norman Billy Emerson, William Paterson, and Marty (Smiles) Faranghetti, Martin Berman.



BETTER IMAGE, PLEASE — A campaign adviser, played by Scott Thomas (right), tells candidate George Mason (Peter Donat) that he must enliven his image to be elected. The American Conservatory Theater-John Flaxman production of "The Selling of the President" had its world premiere last night at San Francisco's Geary Theater. The musical-vaudeville now joins ACT's rotating repertory.

Pope Calls For 'Moral Ecology' To Contain Sexual Temptation

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI appeared today for a "moral ecology" to rid mankind of sexual license and temptation.

"Today we occupy ourselves with ecology, that is the purification of the physical atmosphere in which man develops his life," the Pope told his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica. "Why do we not also concern ourselves with a moral ecology so that man can live like a real man and son of God?"

As pretty girls in hot pants strolled along the nearby Via Della Conciliazione under the spring sun, the Pope condemned the current atmosphere of sexual temptation which he said has become "more ever insistent, seductive, exciting, invasive: think of the licentious and pornographic press, spread with all the cunning of exhibitionism and commerce."

"Whole trainloads of pornographic publications—so they tell us—arrive, one does not know why, to persons who have never requested them, the Pope said.

The Pope spoke of "questionable and wordly show, of licentious pastimes, of certain private and public customs lacking all moderating influence, of the tendency to spread to so-called permissive 'morality' —or immorality— which permits overt baseness and depravement."

The Pope said such an atmosphere "if one does not try to immunize oneself with purposeful self-reflection, everywhere offers temptations to the fragility of the flesh, especially if one is young and inexperienced."

The 73-year-old pontiff said sensuality meant "indiscipline" and he went on to lament that "it is rare that a novelist today does not pay his sad tribute, with at least some pages, to some sensual madness ..." He condemned what he said was the tendency of some psychoanalysts and scientists to describe "the common practical experience of erotic passion... as a new and true discovery of man."

The pontiff then criticized educators for forgetting "certain aspects of human reality" in introducing sexual education in schools.

He told them to bear in mind "the demand of modesty, the attention which should be given to the differences between the two sexes, and above all the delicacy required by the aspects of passion"—in other words, that sexual education should be completely scientific and treated with "cautious, clean and chaste language."

China Releases Hijacked Plane; Passengers Safe

MANILA (UPI)—A Philippine Air Lines (PAL) jetliner hijacked to Communist China by six long-haired Filipino youths returned to Manila today with its crew and passengers who said the Chinese made it clear they want no more pirated planes coming to China.

The hijackers stayed in China.

Capt. Antoni Misa, 50, pilot of the BAC111 jet said the 24 crewmen and passengers including four Americans were released after 24 hours in Canton by Chinese officials who said "they don't favor this hijacking business.

"They themselves impressed it on us," Misa said. "They don't want this kind of incident of going to China on a hijacked aircraft."

Passenger Eldrew Fewkes, 58, of Burley, Idaho, said they were treated "very courtesously" by the Chinese during their stay at Canton, 90 miles from Hong Kong. He said the Chinese were "very surprised" because it was the first hijacked plane to arrive in China.

Russell Ebersole of Jersey City, N.J., an American missionary, said the hijackers apologized to the passengers as they left to return to the Philippines.

"He told us this is not going to be the first and last hijacking," Ebersole said. He quoted on of the hijackers as saying the group went to China for "training" and would later return to the Philippines.

Volcano Erupts

ISLE OF STROMBOLI, Italy (UPI)—The Stromboli Island Volcano erupted today, hurling red-hot rocks and cinders into the sky. Flaming lava flowed down a trail known as the "Path of Fire," but stopped after 165 feet.

Question Of 3Rs Sparks Lively Round

The question of the three Rs against frills in education brought the biggest disagreement last night among the eight candidates for the Novato Unified School District board.

The split reaction came during a candidates night sponsored by the Novato Teachers Association at the lecture hall at Novato High School. Four seats on the seven man board are up at the April 20 election.

A written question from the audience of about 50 persons asked whether it was the purpose of the board to go back to the three Rs and let students learn weaving and sightseeing on their own time.

Taking the first blow at the three Rs was Dewey W. Roberts, 50, an educator with San Francisco public schools, who said "The three Rs can't work anymore; students need additional things."

Raleigh D. Floyd, 33, an engineer, said that they were revelant in their time but not now when society is faced with such complexities and cultural change.

They were joined by Jan Murray, 35, a housewife, who agreed that children should not learn by rote any longer. There are too many facts now to memorize, she said.

Taking sharp exception to them was incumbent Ronald D. Schenck, 38, an attorney, who said that the three Rs were as relevant as they ever were. They are the basic tools used to develop the whole youngster so he could do a better job, Schenck said.

Louis P. Tuetken, 38, a consultant, agreed on the importance of the three Rs.

"We owe it to high school graduates to be able to read, write and do their own calculations," Tuetken said.

William T. Eckhoff, 43, an accountant, said that one of the most important assets of young people coming into his accounting firm was the ability to express themselves in words and, of course, have a knowledge of mathematics.

Elizabeth (Liz) Mertel, 45, housewife, said that she thought that the reading program should be strengthened, and the three Rs and other programs stressed in the elementary grades.

Questioned whether or not he thought that teachers have the right to strike, James E. Casassa, 37, dean of boys in San Francisco public schools, said, "When all other means fail, teachers, at least in San Francisco, I think they have the right to strike as a last recourse."

Questioned what the board could do to instill respect for law and order, and to cope with the drug problem, Schenck said that the schools could not do the job that parents should be doing.

Mrs. Murray wanted to improve communications between the school board and the community by forming a sounding board of parents, teachers and administrators at each school. She also advocated setting priorities for studies and then giving as much as finance would allow.

This latter idea was backed by Mrs. Mertel who said that there was not enough continuity from grade to grade, especially in the elementary schools. Too much of the teaching program was left to individual teachers, she said.

Sponsoring Novato Teachers Association moderator Marjorie Mowat presented the last question on what should be done about teachers setting district policy.

"I am convinced that the teachers' message is not getting past the administrators," said Mrs. Murray. She said that board members should go to schools and talk to teachers.

Eckhoff said that the San Marin High School Parents Club had invited the board members to its meetings with better board reaction to that school's needs.

Teachers should be encouraged to communicate with the school board, said Mrs. Mertel.

"The school board needs the teachers' ideas in setting policy," Casassa said.

Floyd said that the teachers could give the board ideas for more innovations.

Another candidates night will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Novato High School lecture hall, sponsored by the North Marin Parent Teacher Council. Candidates to the Novato Unified School District board, the College of Marin board and the Marin County Board of Education have been invited.

Supervisors Steal Thunder From Protesters

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A protest fizzled Monday when the Sonoma County Supervisors did not vote themselves raises, but approved cost of living increases for seven other elected officials.

A group of six persons gathered in the morning and distributed literature condemning salary increases for the supervisors while not providing enough money for welfare recipients. The group left quietly, however, when Board Chairman Ignazio A. Vella explained that the supervisors had agreed last fall not to increase their salary of $16,000 per year.

Cost of living increases of 4.8 per cent were approved for Treasurer Jimmie Anderson, County Clerk Eugene D. Williams, Sheriff Donald Striepeke, Coroner Andrew Johansen, Auditor-Controller William E. Fulwinder, Assessor Ernest Comalli and Recorder Herb Snyder Jr.

At Least Seven Perish In Big Tenement Blaze

BOSTON (UPI) —A fast-spreading fire destroyed a crowded five-story tenement early today, killing at least seven persons. Fire officials expected to find more bodies.

"We've got six for sure," said Lt. George Lee of the Boston Fire Department. "We found an arm and a leg so we're sure there's another one up there and I wouldn't be surprised if we found more."

Officials speculate the fire began in a pile of debris in a first-floor hallway about midnight and then raced through the brick building near Fenway Park. "We found many of the victims on the first and second floors where they were trapped," Lee said.

A general alarm was sounded just after 1 a.m.

Medical Inflation

UTRECHT, The Netherlands (UPI)—The Dutch spent an average of $13.5 on medicines in 1970, twice as much as they spent five years ago.

ABOUT PRISON LIFE — Ex-con Tommy Lee Walker tells pupils in a history class at San Rafael High School about his experiences in prison. Walker's talk today was one in a series by prison officials, attorney and ex-convict in the class of Ada Fitzsimmons. The class is studying the history of prisons.

STUDENT RAP SESSION

Recently Freed Prison Inmate Tells Of Inside

By LARRY MOWELL

What is it like to go to prison when most other 15-year-olds are going to high school? How does it feel to know that one little flareup with guards will ruin one's chance for freedom?

In a freewheeling discussion with history classes at San Rafael High School yesterday, 26-year-old Tommy Lee Walker tried to explain what it was like to spend half his life in prisons and juvenile detention facilities.

The smiling young man released from San Quentin in September fielded questions all morning from students in the history classes of Ada Fitzsimmons.

During its study of American prisons the classes have invited ex-convicts, an assistant district attorney and Associate Warden James W. L. Park to provide first-hand information on prison life.

The information teen-agers were most interested in yesterday was how Walker was treated in prison and why he was arrested in the first place.

The muscular ex-convict reported that he was sentenced when was 13 to the California Youth Authority for theft. Released in 1960, he said he began holding up bus drivers in Los Angeles. Caught within two and a half months, he was sent back to the youth authority and not released until last year.

"I was in 10 years," he said, "because I was on my rebellious trip."

He said he always reacted when he believed he or other inmates were abused by guards. "If I seen them doing somebody some wrong, I'd always say something about it," he said.

The students, many long-haired and some black, wanted to know what happens to inmates who try "to get it on," cooperate with each other. Walker told of a Black Panther rally just before his release. "The pigs come over. They try to turn it into a riot," he said. He said guards try to prevent unity among the inmates, "try to divide and conquer."

Explaining prison

Guards also harrass individual inmates until they become violent, Walker said. Prison records show Walker was due to be released in 1967, but was sentenced to an additional six months to three years for battery on a guard in December of 1966 at the Vacaville Medical Facility.

Considered a troublesome prisoner, he was not released until the miximum time elapsed. In 1966, he said, he was accused of punching a San Quentin guard, a charge that could send him back to prison.

Pressed by Mrs. Fitzsimmons and her students for details, he said he was working in August of 1969 as a tier tender, a job that gave him the right to be on the fifth story. However, a new guard accused him of being out of bounds, he said.

"If I had wanted to, I could have just throwed him off the tier and got away," he said. Nevertheless, he said he went along because he was in the right and a sergeant let him off. This angered the guard, Walker said, so the man began searching him and telling him he would be locked up all the time.

Shortly afterwards, the guard was beaten as the inmates in the high security cell block went out for their daily exercise.

"They assume it was me because I was hassling with these cops," he said.

Asked if brutality by guards is common, he said, "those are the most vicious people I have ever seen in my life."

Besides beating prisoners, he charged the guards are always trying to cause trouble for inmates. He said an inmate can get disciplinary marks for eating a ham sandwich in the wrong place or for spitting.

Such bad marks label one a troublemaker, lengthen sentences and keep one out of the various classes offered at the prison, he said.

Because of his problems with guards, he said, "I never thought I would get out of there. Now I am out and I don't want to go back even for a minute."

Walker has enrolled at the College of Marin and works parttime to finance his education.

Students were interested in what kind of education he had. He said he dropped out of high school at 15 and could not enroll in classes at the prison because of his poor record.

Another ex-convict, Warren K. Billings, was to speak to the history classes today. Billings runs a jewelry store in San Francisco.

Hearing Reveals Actor A Father

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A court decision handed down in 1969 naming actor Hugh O'Brien as the father of an illegitimate son was revealed Tuesday when the mother asked Superior Court for increased financial support.

Miss Adina Etkins, 41, mother of Hugh Donald Krampe, 18, petitioned for an increase from $250 to $786.50 monthly to help finance the youth's college education. The hearing continued today.

Miss Etkins filed a paternity suit against O'Brien in 1969, 16 years after the boy was born. During that trial, which was closed to the public, Miss Etkins said she met O'Brien in Hollywood in 1951. O'Brien, 43, denied fathering the child, but the court ruled he was the legal parent.

Krampe is the actor's legal surname.

Hallinan Correction

In a story in yesterday's I-J, attorney Vincent Hallinan was incorrectly identified in the last paragraph. The sentence should have read: Hallinan said Patrick, a San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer, called him a "Marxist lawyer" and a "paid propagandist."

Creek Apartments Back To Council

A frustrated Larkspur Planning Commission last night turned down a proposed apartment development near Corte Madera Creek thus "laying it in the lap of the city council."

The 3-to-2 decision, commissioners Robert H. Lee and Leonard S. Rubin dissenting, came on the fifth motion for action on the 186-unit development proposed by Shareholders Capital Programs of Los Angeles.

Four earlier motions — three favoring and one opposing the Larkspur Plaza Road development — died for lack of seconds.

Gary Bertisch, director of construction and planning for the Los Angeles firm, said after the meeting he would appeal the decision to the city council.

In moving to reject the proposal, Commissioner Charles Curley called the developer's plans "one of the most outstanding ever presented the city" but added he was not convinced it would lend itself "to the harmonious development of the city." He wondered, too, if it might not be "detrimental to the health, safety, peace, morals, comfort, convenience, prosperity and general welfare of the surrounding neighborhood" in violation of the municipal code.

He received ringing applause from the standing-room-only crowd, most of which turned out in opposition.

The hearing was a carryover from one held last week at which the three commissioners present deferred action until the full commission could meet.

At that meeting, Boardwalk 1 residents, who live adjacent to the proposed development, raised question over sewage treatment, traffic congestion and cost of supplying city services to the project.

The city staff, last night, responded that the amount of sewage which would be added to the Ross Valley Sanitary District's treatment facility would be minimal, planned street improvements on Magnolia Avenue would reduce traffic congestion and tax revenues derived from the project would cover the cost of city services.

Boardwalk residents, however, continued to dispute these findings and called for a moratorium on all building in the city until the impact of further growth on the city and environment could be studied.

Curley, supported by Commissioners Victor Donati and Joseph N. Picetti, agreed the commission needed time for such a study.

"We've asked (the council) time and time again for time to make studies," he said, referring to the commission's request last year for a building moratorium along Corte Madera Creek. "We've been denied."

The commission fought with the council for a moratorium "and lost big," he concluded.

"Fight again," the crowd urged.

"You can't shut the gate to Larkspur," Commissioner Lee responded. "Where were all you when we were considering apartments along Corte Madera Creek?"

Lee, who voted in favor of the project, said the developer had complied with all legal requirments placed on him and should not be turned down.

Korean Children Will Entertain

Six Korean children will appear at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday at the San Rafael Improvement Club at Fifth and H streets in a special program sponsored by the Evangelist Free Church.

The children are under the care of Compassion, Inc., a Christian missionary organization caring for more than 23,000 children in Korea, India, Indonesia and seven other areas of the world.

The group, touring the United States and Canada with their program of song, dance and pantomime, is called "Children of Compassion.

Today is Wednesday, March 31, the 90th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born today are under the sign of Aries.

Austrian composer Franz Joseph Haydn was born March 31, 1732.

On this day in history:

In 1870 Thomas Peterson-Mundy of Perth Amboy, N.J., became the first American Negro to vote, one hour after ratification of the 15th Amendment.

In 1918 daylight savings time went into effect throughout the United States for the first time.

In 1933 Congress set up the Civilian Conservation Corps to provide vocational training and employment for young American men.

In 1968 President Lyndon Johnson announced he would not seek re-election and ordered suspension of U.S. bombing in North Vietnam.

A thought for today: American humorist Charles Farrar Browne said, "Let us all be happy and live within our means, even if we have to borrow the money to do it."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Extra 10 Points Mean A Lot In Tournament Action

In tournaments, as you probably know, the very same hands are played by many different foursomes. There's no particular advantage in just making your contract if everybody else who holds your cards scores an overtrick. You must struggle to score 110 points (or more) at a part-score contract to beat those who defend with your cards and manage to collect a penalty of 100 points. The extra 10 points would be meaningless at rubber bridge, but they are very important in a tournament.

ONE SPADE

Suppose you are South, playing the North-South cards at one spade. This looks like an excellent, safe contract, but don't relax. Play for eight tricks to score 110 points, counting the 50-point bonus for a part score (awarded in tournaments).

Take the first trick with the ace of spades and start the hearts before the diamonds. Lead a heart to the ace, ruff a heart, cash the ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond in dummy, ruff another heart, ruff another diamond and then ruff dummy's last heart with your last trump. When the final heart ruff gets by safely, you have eight tricks stashed away and you are sure of a fine score for 100 points. You may even get a trick with the king of clubs.

TRUE OPPONENTS

Your true opponents at rubber bridge are right at the table with you. In a tournament your true opponents are those who hold your cards at other tables. You want to get a better score than they do, on the very same cards.

It is quite possible that other North-South players will score 100 points for defeating a contract of two or three hearts. You can beat any such score by making sure of 110 points at your own contract of one spade.

Incidentally, note that your rebid of one spade is not forcing. You could jump to two spades if you wanted to force another bid out of partner. If you fail to jump, partner may pass at one spade.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, bids one club.

◇ - K 8 4
♣ - 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Double.

This asks your partner to bid his best unbid suit. You promise good support for any suit he may name.

Woman Cuts Head In Crash

Wilma Faye Cincotta, 31, of 2164 Feliz Drive, Novato, suffered a head cut when her motorcycle overturned on the Novato Creek bridge sidewalk at Simmons Lane Monday afternoon, according to Novato police.

Officers said the motorcycle carrying Mrs. Cincotta and her 3-year-old daughter, Maria, overturned at the north end of the bridge sidewalk.

Mrs. Cincotta was treated at Novato General Hospital and her daughter examined, but reported uninjured.

Union To Congress: Prove Alioto Case

CLEAR LAKE (UPI)—A regional conference of the Carpenters Union has called for a congressional investigation into the Seattle grand jury indictment of San Francisco Mayor Joseh L. Alioto.

The western states conference voted unanimously for the action at a conference over the weekend at Clear Lake, according to Anthony Ramos, executive officer of the California State Council of Carpenters.

In a resolution, the conference said "a large number of people" in the west believe the indictment was "politically motivated and designed particularly to embarrass one of the chief spokesmen of the Democratic Party."

The indictment called for "particular emphasis" on the role of the Nixon Administration and also asked that a probe be conducted into fees received by Republican state attorneys general across the nation.

Alioto is accused of bribery, conspiracy and fraud in connection with his sharing part of a $2.3 million fee with former Washington State Attorney General John J. O'Connell, also a Democrat, and two other former public officials.

Guilty Plea To Reduced Charge

Scot H. Armour, 21, of Stinson Beach, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Judge Peter Allen Smith set sentencing for May 7.

X-Ray Star Discovered On Rim Of The Universe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists reported today that the little Explorer 42 satellite has discovered a new astronomical enigma —a pulsating X-ray star unlike any other thus far observed in space.

The 315-pound explorer, known as the small astronomy satellite, was launched last Dec. 12. Already it has detected the new X-ray pulsar in our Milky Way star family, found 13 new x-ray sources in the Milky Way and several remote galaxies, and confirmed that a quasar on the edge of the universe is a powerful generator of x-rays.

Pulsars, first discovered in late 1967, are sources of precisely timed emissions of radiation which scientists now believe to be rapidly spinning neutron stars.

These "light houses in the sky" are thought to be collapsed stars, the remnants of cataclysmic stellar explosions in which gravitational forces have condensed matter to densities of a billion tons per cubic inch.

The Chinese were using natural gas for industrial purposes nearly 3,000 years ago.

Digit Game For Testing Car Drinker

NEW YORK (UPI) — A drunken driver may have to prove his prowess on the keyboard before he can test his metal behind the steering wheel if a new device being developed by General Motors proves effective.

The device, a digital keyboard, can prevent a driver from even starting his car, much less speeding off down the highway while under the influence of alcohol.

The device will flash a five digit number for 1.5 seconds which the driver must repeat on the keyboard within 3.5 seconds. If he tries and fails three times, his car will not start for 30 minutes.

GM says a sober person can perform the task, with a little practice, but a drunk cannot. The company said Monday that the device is still in the testing stage.

Bay Plan Changes Due Airing

'I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A staff report on controversial amendments to its bay plan will be presented to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

Conservationists have objected that the amendments would open the way to large-scale development along shoreline, while developers have objected the amendments were too restrictive.

The amendments, subject to various conditions, would allow filling for water-oriented commercial recreation on publicly-owned parts of the bay. The provision now is limited to privately-owned parts.

Commissiorers may take tentative votes on policy issues in the amendments, but the staff said that a final vote was not expected tomorrow.

Bound Over On Weapon Charge

He is to be arraigned in Superior Court Monday.

Broadwell was arrested March 22 with two other youths when Corte Madera police observed them in a car behind the patio car wash on Paradise Drive.

A search of the car revealed the shotgun and burglary tools, according to police.

One of the youths was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, and the other into Marin County Jail on suspicion of misdemeanor possession of burglary tools.

Hippies Raid Pad; Bring In Big Drug Haul

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI)—A group of hippie vigilantes dumped $3,000 worth of drugs at the sheriff's office and warned it will strike again against communes using dangerous narcotics.

"Somona County Dope Watch" telephoned a local newspaper Tuesday and said it had taken the barbituates, heroin and amphetamines from another hippie group which was trying to move into this northern California coastal area.

"This is the first in a series of strikes against pharmaceutically produced drugs known to be extremely dangerous," the caller told the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat.

The raiders said they believe in the use of organically grown psychedelic drugs, but oppose the chemically-produced kind.

TV REVIEW

Control Of Political Ads Backed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Almost three-quarters of adults want some kind of restriction or control of televised political advertising, according to a survey taken immediately after last November's elections.

This is the finding of the Foote, Cone & Belding Agency in a survey summarized in a report on the public's reaction to political ads.

Of those polled, 65 per cent favored controlling the ads themselves, and 9 per cent felt the length of the campaign should be restricted.

"The most frequently specified concern," said the report, "is that all candidates should have equal time and money in the opinion of 24 per cent of all adults polled." The report added:

"This was a more prevalent feeling among men, people 25-34, college educated, in professional occupations, middle income and from large cities—a profile essentially similar to those believing that advertising had the greatest effect."

Non-whites, the survey said, tended not to ascribe great influence to television advertising for political purposes.

"Compared to the other groups," the survey went on, "they were more likely to have no opinion of its effect other than to say it was not influential. A similar pattern is found among service and unskilled laborers — among whom nonwhites are highly over-represented."

According to the report, "the overwhelming majority of adults" believe video political ads had some influence in affecting voting.

"Belief in the influence of political advertising varies only slightly by party affiliation," the survey added, "with Republicans and independents somewhat more likely than Democrats to feel (the ads) highly influential."

The report observed that "people from the East expressed somewhat greater concern about control over political advertising expenditures."

On the other hand, it noted, "the Western region appears to represent a different situation. People here are much more likely to feel that advertising was extremely influential and to believe that the content of (the ads) should be restricted."

NBC Rejects Demos 'Equal Time' Plea

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Broadcasting Company has rejected an appeal by Democratic party officials for equal time to respond to President Nixon's remarks on the "Today" show.

NBC said the President's comments on the morning program were more philosophical than political.

Pontiff's Assailant Takes Stand

MANILA (UPI) — Benjamin Mendoza testified at his trial today that he lunged at Pope Paul VI with a dagger last November but he did not intend to harm the Pontiff physically.

Mendoza, a Bolivian surrealist painter, said when he leaped at the Pope from six feet away he intended to use the dagger only symbolically.

The testimony came on Mendoza's 36th birthday. He passed around some spiked fruitjuice in court to celebrate and got a toast from the judge.

The testimony ended Mendoza's three-month trial for the attempted assassination of the Pope when the Pontiff arrived at Manila Airport during his tour of Asia and the Pacific.

Mendoza appeared in court dressed in a jungle-green trenchcoat and a cap with earflaps, although the temperature was in the 90s. His garments were festooned with antiwar and antireligion inscriptions, and he produced a tiny mock coffin, replete with tiny floral wreath.

"My purpose was not to harm anybody," Mendoza testified.

He said he had attacked the pope "to demonstrate the feelings of millions because he is the head of superstition and hypocrisy."

At the end of his testimony, Mendoza removed his trenchcoat and cap and invited the court to toast his birthday with some pineapple juice spiked with beer. Judge Pedro Bautista, members of the court and some newsmen accepted.

Bautista reserved his decision until after the defense and the prosecution submit their written summations within the next two weeks. Conviction of attempted murder is punishable by two to six years in prison.

Bogus Bond Ring Broken In City

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A counterfeiting ring has printed more than $150,000 worth of U.S. savings bonds and cashed a third of them, the U.S. Secret Service announced Tuesday.

The Treasury Department agency said Sheldon Kent, 33, San Francisco, who was arrested on counterfeiting charges, was one of four members of the ring. He was held on $100,000 bond for a May 13 preliminary hearing.

Secret Service agents said Thomas Gaffney, 49, a San Francisco printer who was arrested last month, was part of the same ring. He is free on $10,000 bail.

Thomas Hanson, special agent in charge for the Secret Service, said the plates for bogus $100 Series E savings bonds and two other members of the gang still are missing.

Sports Car, Bus Crash Kills Two

Two Petaluma men were killed yesterday when their sports car collided with a school bus on Shoreline Highway, north of Fallon Road, near the Marin-Sonoma border.

Ronald E. Durham, 26, of 818 Middlefield Drive, and Chris I. Riewerts, 26, of 510 Liberty Street, were pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

Sonoma County Coroner Andrew Johansen said the men had left Petaluma about 1:30 p.m for an afternoon on the coast and were apparently returning to Petaluma when the accident occurred at 3:55 p.m.

The California Highway Patrol said the car, driven by Durham, a student, drifted off the roadway on the crest of a hill, bounced along an embankment and struck a Shoreline Unified School District Bus head on.

Officers said seven children aboard the bus suffered cuts from broken glass, but none apparently required hospital treatment. The driver of the bus was Angelo Mazzucchi, 43, of Tomales.

Johansen said both men were pinned beneath the car for more than an hour.

Durham was the son of Dr. Claude J. and Ruth E. Durham. Riewerts, a clerk at the Petaluma Super Market, was the son of Irvin C. and Lillian R. Riewerts.

Mills Hits Validity Of Bus Loads

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Senate President pro tempore James R. Mills, in a new broadside at the Golden Gate Bridge District, has challenged the validity of district claims that a bus system it favors could carry as many passengers as the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The San Diego Democrat, in a letter to Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the bridge district, wrote that his analysis of figures submitted by the agency "have caused me to doubt your respect for my intelligence."

Legislative hearings are to open soon on the district's transit plan for the next 10 years calling for a $301 million start on a bus rapid transit system using tunnels in downtown San Francisco and a second deck for transit on the bridge.

Using passenger load comparisons supplied by the district between is proposed system and BART's, Mills said he figured the only way bus transit could equal BART's capacity would be for buses to run 6.93 seconds apart.

In fact, Mills said, buses could carry less than one-sixth the passengers of a BART line.

Mills, a member of the Senate committee that will hear the bridge district's plan, complained last month in a letter to Luehring that the district's $670,000 study of transit had failed to make a fair comparison between bus and rail transit.

Fort Ross Drive For Old Chapel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A $75,000 drive to rebuild the Russian Orthodox Chapel at Fort Ross started Tuesday in San Francisco with the unveiling of a scale model of the building which burned down last October.

Fort Ross was once a Russian fishing and fur trading post. It became state property after an earthquake in 1906 collapsed the chapel, which was restored.

Ross Valley Flood Problems Outlined

The newly formed sub-zone advisory board to the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone last night directed its staff to draft priorities and budget recommendations for solving flood problems within the zone's unincorporated area.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said today he outlined six problems within sub-zone 9-A which deserve attention.

Those areas, he said, are the Wolfe Grade area, Oak Manor, La Cuesta Drive in Greenbrae, Tamalpais Creek in Kentfield, Lucky Drive near Corte Madera and Sleepy Hollow Creek.

Murphy said he has estimated the cost of improvements to the areas to reduce winter flooding at about $500,000. The advisory board, he said, will continue discussion of the problems and possible solutions at its next meeting April 13.

The sub-zone includes only the unincorporated areas of the Ross Valley such as Kentfield, Greenbrae and Sleepy Hollow. It was created late last year so unincorporated areas could raise money for flood control without involving incorporated areas.

Assembly Passes Tenure Abolition

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill abolishing the tenure provisions for administrators in the San Francisco school system was approved 60-2 Tuesday by the Assembly and sent to the Senate.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, author of the measure, said it does not change the current provision which requires a person first to serve as a teacher before becoming an administrator.

He said the bill merely halts tenure provisions for administrators in the San Francisco school system.

Under terms of his bill, Brown said an administrator who is fired would drop back to the tenure status he held as a teacher before becoming an administrator.

Marin Tars Outslug Canada J.C., 8-4

Gallardo Rips Two Home Runs

Dennis Bueler didn't pitch as well yesterday as he usually does, but he didn't have to. His College of Marin teammates saw to the tall righthander's welfare by cranking out six extra base hits, including a pair of home runs by Rafael Gallardo, as they defeated Canada Junior College, 8-4 in Redwood City.

It was the Tars' fifth victory against a single loss in the Camino Norte Conference baseball race, and keeps them tied with West Valley of Campbell for first place.

Bueler, who did not allow an earned run while winning his first two games of the year, went the distance for the third straight time, but in shaky fashion. He gave up nine hits, as many as both De Anza and West Valley got off him, and he walked five. But he was tough when he had to be, shutting out the Colts over the last four innings.

Gallardo's circuit blasts were both more or less icing on the cake. He slammed a two run homer in the seventh, and hit the first pitch of the ninth inning out of sight. A relatively more important homer came off the bat of Marin's Steve Hendrickson; that was a two run shot that tied the score in the sixth.

Ironically, the winning hit was not a homer but a single, supplied in the seventh inning by Dee Fedrick. It came after Mike Parnow had tripled, and knocked in that worthy with the clincher.

NOT EVEN CLOSE — Randy Jackson of Novato High School slid past third base while Al Curtiss of Drake High waited for the throw yesterday in the third inning of a Marin County Athletic League opener in San Anselmo. Jackson was Novato's big hitter with 4-for-4, while Curtiss carried the load for Drake with two hits, one a triple.

LEAD SERIES 3-0

Bucks Continue Hex On Warriors

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—San Francisco coach Al Attles isn't ready to concede yet that the Milwaukee Bucks have a hex on the Warriors.

But to the casual observer, it sure seems that's the case.

The Bucks grabbed a 3-0 lead in their best of seven National Basketball Association playoff series with the Warriors Tuesday night with a 114-102 victory.

It was the 12th win in a row for the Bucks over the Warriors, stretching back to last season. During the just concluded campaign the Bucks whomped the Warriors six times without losing.

They'll meet again Thursday night in Oakland, and Attles said in the hushed San Francisco locker room that the series "is not over with until the fourth game is finished.

"I never give up against anyone," he said. "It's not the money, but the pride."

Attles complained that it always seems to be a different Milwaukee player who kills the Warriors.

"Last night it was Dandridge. Tonight it was Alcindor," he said.

Despite the fact the Warriors just don't seem to be able to knock off the Bucks, Milwaukee coach Larry Costello praised them anyway.

Costello said the Warriors played "fantastic." He called it "the best they played against us all year" and said he hoped they wouldn't have to return here for a fifth game, which would be played next Sunday if the Warriors win Thursday night.

"They have the talent," the Milwaukee coach said.

The Warriors shot a respectable 43 per cent from the field, with Jerry Lucas getting 25 points and Nate Thurmond 23. But it just wasn't good enough because the Bucks connected on 52 per cent of their shots.

Lucas also led the Warriors in rebounding with 20 and Alcindor was tops for the Bucks with 12.

Thurmond, the Warriors' 6-foot-11 center, was simply outplayed by the 7-2 Alcindor, and he admitted that fact.

"It's tougher for me to play against Alcindor than (Wilt) Chamberlain or any other center because I have to use my arms more," Thurmond said. "Alcindor also is quicker than any other center."

Just Can't Throw His Product Away

Some time ago I published a plea for the identity of three Marin County golfers who were seen throwing boomerangs at the Chimney Rock golf course in Napa County.

Well, proving that this column is read by at least someone else besides me, the plea bore fruit the other day when Andy Klapak of San Anselmo stepped forward to identify himself as one of those men.

"Yes, I've been throwing and making boomerangs for about 50 years," said Klapak, a retired Air Force colonel who usually golfs and boomerangs with neighbors Paul Thomson and Reuben Smith.

"I'm probably the only guy in the state of California who makes boomerangs," he said. "In fact, I'll offer you a $25 reward to find anyone else in the state who does it — outside of the sporting goods manufacturers, of course."

Mr. Klapak, who admits to being "over 70 years old," says he can still hurl a boomerange "about 50 yards in a circle and call where it will land."

He learned the art, he said, in Australia and the South Seas while serving in the U.S. Army shortly after World War I and it has been his lifelong hobby. He also does other woodwork in his spare time.

"I used to hunt quail with my boomerangs," he laughed, "which is cheaper than buying shotgun shells because my weapon always came back to me if I missed."

His hobby proved quite popular with school kids when Klapak toiled as director of maintenance for the Kentfield School District several years ago. "I used to have quite an audience when I'd throw the boomerangs on the school fields. I remember at Wolfe Grade School I'd throw it across the street and have it come back to me. I'm afraid I created some traffic jams."

He said he tried to get permission from local golf clubs to exercise his hobby in Marin, but "they were reluctant because they were afraid I'd hit somebody. Finally, we got permission from the Chimney Rock pro after I showed him I could control the flight of the boomerang. I placed my hat on the ground and showed him I could hit it. After that, he gave us permission. After all, I can't throw them away. They always come back to me."

Mr. Klapak recently underwent major surgery but vows to be back in the fields soon flinging away. That I'd like to see.

Novato Nine Whips Drake Pirates, 5-2

Hornets Rap Out 14 Hits

The Novato High School Hornets dispelled any doubts that they are the team to beat in the Marin County Athletic League baseball race yesterday as they racked the Drake High Pirates for 14 hits and a 5-2 opening day victory in San Anselmo, before a crowd of several hundred.

(Stories of other high school baseball games on page 34.)

Third baseman Randy Jackson ripped four hits and centerfielder Bill Busher three as the Hornets went through three Drake pitchers, while their junior lefthander Mike Lamb collared the Pirates on just six safeties.

The Hornets scored at the rate of a run an inning through the fifth, and left 10 men stranded in the process as they unloaded first on starter Lex Rzepelia and then on reliever George Shawver. Busher's hits were the most timely. He knocked in a pair of runs and scored a pair. Jackson was perfect with four singles in four at bats.

Drake finally got to Lamb in the sixth, but it was too little and too late. Al Curtiss, a transfer from Santa Monica was the man of the moment for the Pirates as he lashed a triple with two out to score John Billings and Mark Shepherd. Curtis also had a line single in the fifth.

Lamb, utilizing a blazing fastball in the early innings and some offspeed "junk" at the end, struck out seven and walked three. He wasn't pressed at all until the late going.

Stone, Giants On TV

PHOENIX (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants won't have to wait long to avenge their first loss this year to their traditional West Coast rivals — the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Giants were pounded by the Dodgers, 9-1, Tuesday in Albuquerque, but they get another Cactus League whack at Los Angeles tonight.

The Dodgers unloaded for 13 hits on two Giant lefthanders, Ron Bryant and John Cumberland. Bill Singer held San Francisco to three hits, three of them singles.

In the fourth inning, a 360-foot homer by Los Angeles catcher Bill Sudakis led a three-run barrage. The Dodgers followed that with three-run bursts in the fifth and sixth frames to put the game away.

A Settlement In Haywood Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Denver Rockets and Spencer Haywood came to a formal parting of the ways in U.S. District Court Tuesday when Judge Warren J. Ferguson announced settlement of the case and dismissed the jury in the breach of contract case.

Haywood will now be free to play for the Seattle Supersonics, the team he signed a $1.5 million contract with after quitting the Rockets. His move has caused a flurry of legal hassles, the primary one of which was a suit by the Rockets charging him with breach of contract.

Haywood, after being sued by the Rockets, turned around and sued them for misrepresenting their purported $1.9 million contract. He said it was never guaranteed that he'd ever see all that money.

The Rockets, on the other hand, argued in court that the contract was legal and binding. Court observers thought the trial would last for weeks.

But a recent ruling by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy that stated that the Supersonics could keep Haywood if they paid a $200,000 fine appeared to have signalled an end of the law suits.

Rams Trade Mason

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams Tuesday announced the trade of veteran running back Tommy Mason to the Washington Redskins in exchange for an undisclosed draft choice. Mason, 31, has spent 10 years in the National Football League —six with Minnesota and four with the Rams.

Athletics Send 8 Players Down To Minor Leagues

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) —Oakland Athletics Captain Sal Bando came to life Tuesday, but the A's lost, 6-5, to the Milwaukee Brewers.

The A's rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth, but were stopped by Milwaukee reliever Roric Harrison.

The A's also announced Tuesday that eight players, including reliever Marcel Lachemann, have been sent to the club's minor league camp for reassignment.

Gymnastics Victory

Sophomore Kris VanOeveren placed first in five events and won the all-around point trophy yesterday to lead Terra Linda High School to a 70.8-63.9 victory over Monte Vista High of Danville in a boys' gymnastics meet at Terra Linda.

Rancho Cotati Nine Beats Piner, 9-2

Rancho Cotati High School erupted for seven runs in the second inning and went on to defeat Piner High, 9-2 in a North Bay II League season-opening baseball game last night in Santa Rosa.

Petaluma Rips Santa Rosa, 7-1

A massive explosion in the fourth inning that was good for seven runs was all the Petaluma High School Trojans needed to leave the Santa Rosa High School Panthers in the dust, the Trojans capturing their North Bay League opener, 7-1.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Should Be Ready For Emergencies

Stop for a moment and think of what you would do if one of the following emergencies occurred one day this summer while you were out in your boat:

1. a passenger fell overboard,
2. the boat ran up on a sandy shoal,
3. you crashed into a rocky reef,
4. the engine compartment burst into flames.

DON'T FORGET that every one of these things happens to somebody, somewhere, almost every day during the summer. The people who do the right thing often don't even realize there was an emergency. Those who do the wrong thing, sometimes pay for the mistake with their lives.

Safety experts tell us it's the person who has thought about the emergency ahead of time, and thought out exactly what he would do.

This type of boater has a mental image of precisely where the lifejackets are stowed, and how to grab them in a hurry. He knows where every fire extinguisher is hanging, how to operate it without losing a second. He has probably run through a few emergency drills with his family so that they too would be likely to do the right thing.

For instance if someone falls overboard, the thing to do immediately is to throw the person in the water a ring buoy, or life preserver, or anything that floats and can be hung on to. Then turn the boat to be upwind from the victim, cut the engine and let the boat drift to the rescue point.

If you run up on a rocky reef, stay put for a few seconds until someone goes below to see if the boat has been holed. If it has, stay on the reef. To back off into deeper water could be infinitely more dangerous than being on the rocks.

However, if you run up on a sand spit, throw the engine or outboard into reverse immediately, then as the following wave from your wake catches up and gives you a lift, you are likely to back off without damage.

If a fire flares up from a fuel tank or engine area, chances of putting it out often exist for only the first few seconds, before much heat has had time to develop. Grab an extinguisher and give the fire as big a burst of dry chemical, CO2 or foam as possible. Don't try to save the extinguisher. Seconds count.

Q. Everybody says if swamped one should stay with the boat. I'm a champion swimmer, why should I?

A. I think you'd be safer if you hung on to the boat and by paddling with your hands and feet, worked it to shallow water. Statistics are against swimming for shore no matter how good you are. They show that the good swimmer who takes off is drowned far more frequently than the poor swimmer who stayed with the boat.

Q. What would you do if you lost your propeller?

A. This happened a few years ago to Carl Baughman of Miami, Fla., out in a 14-foot outboard. He carved a prop from the oak handle of a gaff and brought the boat in against the tide.

Q. Is there any substitute for a life-buoy ring?

A. Almost anything that floats and can be grasped may save a person in danger in the water. I knew a man who couldn't swim but saved a life by taking the spare wheel out of his car and throwing it to a person about to drown in a slip used by big ocean going ships. Your spare will float.

Q. How big an anchor should one carry?

A. Big enough (and strong enough) so that if your engine should quit and the wind is blowing you on to a rocky lee shore, it will hold your boat in the roughest conditions the boat could hope to survive. Invest in a big anchor and 250 feet of nylon anchor line.

Terra Linda Wins Key Swim Meet

In a meet that virtually decides the Marin County Athletic League swim title, the undefeated Terra Linda High School Trojans pounded the Redwood Giants 65-30, at Terra Linda.

In another MCAL meet, San Marin defeated Drake 52-42, in San Anselmo.

Terra Linda, in winning all but three events, relied on a double win from sophomore distance ace Rick DeMont. DeMont picked up his victories in the 200 and 400-yard freestyle, recording a 1971 MCAL best in the 200 at 1:51.6.

Redwood's Paul Cane picked up two of the Giants' wins, in the 200 individual medley and 100 breast. Cane's breast time of 1:06.0 ranks as the league's top this year.

Trojan Thom Guthrie anchored the two victorious Terra Linda relays and picked up an individual first place in the 100 free with a clocking of 51.5. Guthrie, the league's premier sprinter, improved his MCAL-leading 100 time by a full second.

Novato and San Rafael were both idle yesterday.

Quilici A Coach

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins Tuesday announced that veteran infielder Frank Quilici has been signed as a coach. The Twins also announced that catcher Glenn Ezell has been sent to their Melbourne, Fla., minor league base for reassignment.

Trojans Shut Out Redwood

Scott Seefeldt dished out a three-hitter and Bill Sherbert backed him up with three hits including a triple yesterday as the Terra Linda High School Trojans shut out Redwood High, 6-0 in a Marin County Athletic League season opening baseball game at Larkspur.

The Trojans scored three times in the first inning to give Seefeldt the cushion he needed, and the senior righthander responded by going the route, and striking out seven while holding the Giants to three singles. His counterpart, John Moresco, went the distance for Rdwood and took the loss. He struck out six and walked four.

Sherbert and Seefeldt's brother and catcher, Jerry, supplied the key hits in the first inning rally, and each finished with a pair of rbi's. Jerry also had a double.

According to Terra Linda coach Keith Fraser, Seefeldt, while obviously too much for Redwood, did not throw one of his better games. His control was spotty as he walked seven, as many as he fanned. But, as Fraser said afterwards, "It's hard to criticize someone who throws a shutout."

Redwood's Tennis Streak: 38

In other opening-day matches, Marin Catholic topped Novato 4-1, Tamalpais defeated San Rafael 4-1, while Terra Linda and Drake's match at Drake was called because of darkness with the score 2-2. The deciding match was to be continued later this week.

In their skunking of San Marin, the Redwood Giants got top performances from their doubles teams of Matt Khourie and Mark Strasser, and Ballard Bare and Bill Cavalier, who combined for two 6-0, 6-0 washouts over the Mustangs.

San Rafael Tops Tam In Opener

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs came up with six runs in the sixth inning yesterday to pull from behind and defeat Tamalpais High, 11-7 in a season-opening, Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Albert Park.

Centerfielder Dirk Gansloser of San Rafael was the game's central figure as he belted a triple, double and single, each of which knocked in a run. Ironically, however, his only contribution to the final rally was a walk. The Bulldogs made their move late in the afternoon, when the lights had been turned on.

Jim Thorne and Dave Urquhart each rapped bases loaded singles in the sixth, when the Bulldogs jumped on Indian reliever Kevin Brink. Mike Spezzi, the third San Rafael pitcher, worked the last two innings and was credited with the win.

Tam took an early edge when, paced by doubles by Cliff Hall and Bill Washington, they posted four runs in the first inning. Washington also had a single, scored twice and batted in a pair of runs. Urquhart, like Gansloser had three hits for San Rafael, while Thorne and rightfielder Holt Greene had two each.

Tam, San Marin Trackmen Win

In another Marin County Athletic League meet, San Marin pounded Drake 81-35 in Novato.

Robertson took victories in the high hurdles, low hurdles, high jump, and topped off the day with a leg on the victorious 440 relay for the Indians.

Scoring double wins for the San Marin Mustangs were Chakra Chappell, Bill Carpenter, and Randy Colfer.

The victory boosts the Tam Indians' won-lost record to 2-0 in MCAL play, while Terra Linda drops to 0-2. San Marin evened its season mark at 1-1, while Drake lost its second straight.

Also undefeated are Marin Catholic, San Rafael, and Redwood at 1-0, while Novato lost its only outing.

Seals Will Have Their Hands Full

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Seals will have their hands full tonight with Bill Goldsworthy of the Minnesota North Stars.

Goldsworthy, currently the hottest scorer in the National Hockey League, has scored all but six of his 34 goals since the All-Star game break in mid January.

Against Vancouver 10 days ago Goldsworthy scored four times.

The Seals will also have their first chance to face former teammate Ted Hampson, who was traded to Minnesota for Tom Williams.

California is winding down a dismal season with three remaining games. After tonight's contest, the Seals host Vancouver Friday, then travel to Los Angeles Saturday for the last game of the season.

New Angle; ABA Takes On ABA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)— The Carolina Cougars set off a new American Basketball Association controversy Tuesday by signing Western Kentucky star Jim McDaniels, the top draft pick of the ABA Utah Stars.

Cougar General Manager Carl Scheer, in one breath, called it "the largest contract ever paid to a professional basketball player" and in the next acknowledged he had no release from Utah to even talk to McDaniels.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph said McDaniels' signing had not and will not be approved by the ABA board of trustees. "If and when the Cougars submit McDaniels' contract, I will not approve it."

Hockey

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) —The United States takes on Finland today in the World Ice Hockey championships and the coach thinks the young and inexperienced team will do well.

The Americans may be at the bottom of the six-nation event with two games to go but they still gave the Russian world champions a run for their money Tuesday night, losing, 7-5.

Basketball

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Rocket Coach Alex Hannum declared Tuesday he will bail out of basketball next season if pro teams continue to sign underclass college players.

"If our pro league —the National Basketball Association —would deteriorate into a thing where there was wholesale signing of underclassmen, I feel I would get out," Hannum said.

SALISBURY, N.C. (UPI)— Jim Murray of the Los Angeles Times and Chris Schenkel of the American Broadcasting Company appear to have the market cornered for top sports reporting awards.

Murray Tuesday night was presented the national Sportswriter of the Year award for the fifth straight year, and Schenkel won the award for broadcasting for the fourth time.

12-INNING STANDOFF

Scoreless Tie At San Marin

Tom Olson and Len Hoffman pitched the games of their lives against each other yesterday but came away empty-handed as the Marin County Athletic League season opener at Novato between Marin Catholic High School and San Marin High was called after 12 scoreless innings because of darkness.

Olson, a senior starting his fourth year on the Marin Catholic varsity, went all the way for the Kentfield team, and allowed just two hits. He struck out an incredible 19 batters, including eight in the last four innings.

Hoffman, also a senior, was less impressive statistically than Olson, but far more heroic, considering the recent events of his life. A motorcycle accident shattered his leg two years ago, and at that time he was given little chance of ever playing baseball again. Last year he had to be satisfied with coaching on the sidelines, too weak and immobile to see any action.

Yesterday, however, he was magnificent, going 10 and a third innings, giving up just four hits, striking out nine and walking only one. He did not allow a Wildcat runner to reach third base.

Olson for his part was unbelievable. Mixing a fastball with a straight-off-the-table curve, he limited the Mustangs to one solid hit early in the game, and a bunt base hit in the 11th.

No decision was made as to when or how the game will be completed. It was the first time within Marin Catholic coach Gary Hughes' memory that a MCAL game had ended in a tie.

FISH AND GAME

San Pablo Bay Angling Still Slow

By AL GIDDINGS

Striped bass and sturgeon fishing in San Pablo Bay is still pretty slow. I worked the area Saturday, saw one undersized sturgeon caught and released, and that was about it. I think we've lost them for this winter. They should be in the Delta on the annual spawning run now.

I'd better mention that Sam Knoles caught a 15-pound striper last week; his first in a month. No stripers for me but I nailed two sturgeon on two trips out near the S. P. Buoy, about one mile straight out from China Camp. One contained 22 pounds of roe. I gave it to Sam. He is curing it and putting it up into one-ounce jars. One for each friend, with 16 oz. to the pound, that makes 352 jars. He's the most economical man I know.

MARTY MEDIN from the Fire House Gang at Woodacre finally decided to go fishing again. He was quite concerned with the mercury problem. Now that the tests have proved out okay, he wanted to go, so we gave the red-tailed perch fishing a try in Tomales Bay off Inverness.

We fished at high tide using a number 2 hook, a half ounce sinker and flyrods, with one half a shrimp for bait. In about an hour, we had 20 red-tails. Fight? And how! They hit like a bomb! The biggest weighed 2¾ pounds. We filleted them, getting almost a pound of boned and skinned meat from each fish. One time, I found a small piece of old sardine on the gunwale of the boat and caught a fish on it. I think they will hit anything.

The next day, Marty took the fire house gang out; they all limited and caught a six-pound striper to boot. They used wet flies too, and the action was good on these also. Really worthwhile!

I RECEIVED a note from Aleta Palacio of San Rafael. It reads: "Ducks Unlimited, Marin Chapter, will host a Spring Dinner-Dance Saturday night, April 24, at the Marin Golf and Country Club, Ignacio. The object of the party is to bring all duck hunters and their ladies together for a celebration." Celebrate what? Walter Freitas, chairman of the Marin Chapter of Duck's Unlimited has announced that the club's project of acquiring and improving the Anderson Project in the area of Alberta Canada has been accomplished and paid for. The Anderson Project is a nesting area from which Pacific Flyway ducks come to arin and other closeby duck areas. The party is open to all those interested in hunting and good fellowship. I went last year and it was great! The on-the-spot raffle was loaded with top notch prizes, and it WAS a fun party Tickets are available at the Western Sport Shop in San Rafael.

IF YOU have any recommendations for the 1971-72 hunting seasons or regulations, you should submit them in writing to the Fish and Game Commission, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento, before April 2. Or you can plan to be present at the April 2 commission meeting in Los Angeles to make them in person. The commission has set three meetings to consider this year's regulations. As required by law, recommendations from those concerned will be accepted at the initial meeting April 2. Hearings on the recommendations will then be held at a meeting in Redding on April 30, and the proposed regulations will be announced.

Final hearings and adoption of the regulations will take place at the commission's May 21 meeting in Sacramento. The new laws will then go into effect July 1.

IN ORDER that vacations and other plans can be scheduled in advance, the following season opening dates are generally adhered to unless extenuating circumstances arise. Early deer season: first Saturday in August. Late Deer season: Saturday nearest Sept. 23. Quail and chukar: Last Saturday in October. Doves: Sept. 1. (Waterfowl seasons are adopted in late August.)

Warden Russell Ild checked some of the Marin Municipal Water District lake trout fishermen. About eight anglers had limits. The waters were somewhat murky, but fishing should pick up with the good weather.

Hillman Leads Team To AAU Cage Title

LONDON, Ky. (UPI)—The Armed Forces All-Stars won their fourth consecutive National AAU Basketball Tournament Tuesday night with an easy 90-77 victory over the Marathon Oil Co. of Lexington, Ky.

Six-foot-8 Darnell Hillman of the All-Stars, a first round draft choice of San Francisco in the National Basketball Association, was named the tournament's most valuable player just after the game.

The Southeastern All-Stars downed the U. S. Caps of Cincinnati, Ohio, 89-70, earlier Tuesday night in the consolation game.

The Armed Forces All-Stars grabbed an early lead and the Marathon team was never in contention. The Armed Forces led at halftime 50-29.

In the consolation game, Robert Wyenandt of the U. S. Caps led all scorers with 25. Mike Casey of the University of Kentucky had 24 to pace the Southeastern All-Stars, a team composed of Kentucky College Seniors.

NBA ROUNDUP

Lew, Reed A Step Closer To Meeting

By U. P. International

Lew Alcindor and Willis Reed are a step closer to the greatest playoff battle of centers since the Bill Russell-Wilt Chamberlain match-up of 1969.

Alcindor scored 33 points Tuesday night as the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the San Francisco Warriors 114-102 to take a commanding 3-0 lead in their Western Conference playoff series and Reed tallied 16 for New York while the champion Knicks were beating Atlanta, 113-107 for a 3-1 Eastern Division playoff margin over the Hawks.

Chamberlain's chances for appearing in possibly his last National Basketball Association playoff were hurt when the Chicago Bulls stopped Los Angeles 112-102 to even that Western Conference series at 2-2. Baltimore gained a superior 3-1 edge over Philadelphia on a 120-105 decision.

Alcindor, the NBA's Most Valuable Player, has conquered every opposing pivotman in the league this season with the exception of Reed, who seems to psych out the Milwaukee 7-foot-2 giant at each meeting. New York beat the Bucks four of five games during the regular season, almost a third of Milwaukee's total of 16 losses.

As usual, Alcindor had no trouble handling Nate Thurmond as Milwaukee beat San Francisco for the 12th straight time over two seasons. Big Law turned the pivot into a gattling gun as he hooked, popped and dunked to mow down the Warriors. Bob Dandridge contributed 23 points to the Buck attack. Jerry Lucas led San Francisco with 25 points and Thurmond added 23.

Reed and Dick Barnett combined for eight straight points in a two-minute span while the league's best defensive team held Atlanta scoreless. New York's 108-100 lead with two minutes to play was safe as a jittery Atlanta team began throwing the ball away.

Walt Frazier, who scored 29 points in each of his two previous playoff games with the Hawks, led New York on 26 points and Barnett had 22. Lou Hudson, the NBA's fifth leading scorer, topped the Hawks with 30 points.

"I don't see how anybody can beat us now," said Dave DeBusschere, who scored 19 points for New York before fouling out. "We have a title to defend and everyone's going to have to prove we're not the team we were last year."

DeBusschere credited backcourtmen Frazier and Barnett for their defense and the job Bill Bradley did on Hudson. The burly Knick forward added "I like to play under pressure — most athletes do. It brings out the best in you."

Jack Marin scored 15 of his game-high 27 points in Baltimore's fourth quarter surge and Earl Monroe netted 26 as the seemingly crippled Bullets throttled the 76ers again. Among the lame and limp were Gus Johnson with 14 points and Wes Unseld, who had eight. Archie Clark led the 76ers with 24 points and Hal Greer netted 18. 18.

Baltimore was held to a 62-62 halftime tie, but moved in front, 89-81 entering the fourth quarter. Marin then scored half of the Bullets' last period points.

"Marin made all his shots when it counted," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue. "He hit his first seven tries in the last quarter and you don't hardly beat that kind of shooting anymore."

Bob Love of Chicago also got hot in the fourth quarter with 17 of his 36 points and the barrage came just in time. The Bulls were trailing, 83-78, going into the last period when the slender Love scored the fat part of his point total. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 32 points and Chamberlain had 12.

"You have to make Wilt work 48 minutes," said Jerry Sloan, who accounted for 23 Chicago points. "That pace has to take something out of him and he's the guy who gets the ball."

Three of the teams can nail down first round victories Thursday night as the scene switches to New York, Baltimore and Oakland, where San Francisco is playing its home games. Chicago is at Los Angeles that night, too.

Fleeting Price Of Fame

By U. P. International

Dean Chance and Jim Lonborg, a pair of Cy Young Award winners, are suffering the price of fleeting fame.

Chance, at least, had another chance today as he became the newest addition to the Detroit Tiger mound staff after he was traded by the New York Mets to the American League club.

Lonborg was optioned to Louisville of the International League when Boston finally gave up on him following his award winning year in 1967 when he led the Red Sox to the A.L. pennant. A skiing accident after the championship season was Lonborg's downfall. His spectacular 22-9 year was followed by 6-10, 7-11 and 4-1 seasons.

Chance, Cy Young winner with the California Angels in 1964, had one more good season as a 20-game winner with Minnesota in 1967. He was traded to Cleveland after the 1969 campaign and sold to the Mets last year for $150,000 when New York needed pitching help in a stretch drive. He was 9-8 with Cleveland and 0-1 with New York in 1970.

The Mets showed they still need pitching as New York dropped a 6-3 decision to Cincinnati Tuesday night. The Reds pounded starter Jerry Koosman for 10 hits and all their runs. Cincinnati first baseman Lee May flew back to Ohio for hospitalization and treatment of damaged ligaments inside his left knee suffered in a baseline collision with Tim Foli.

In other exhibition action, Pittsburgh defeated the Chicago White Sox, 8-6; St. Louis routed Kansas City, 10-3; Montreal pounded Atlanta, 9-3; Washington hammered the New York Yanks, 9-7; Philadelphia edged Detroit, 5-4; the Chicago Cubs whipped California, 6-3, San Diego beat Cleveland, 6-3; Los Angeles rapped San Francisco, 9-1; and Milwaukee nipped Oakland, 6-5.

Giant Rookies Are Giving 1971 Club Quite A Boost

By JACK HANLEY

ALBUQUERQUE — Spring training involved no lost weekends for the Giants this year, such as a year ago when they wandered around Japan in a sightseeing tour.

It wasn't a wasted overseas junket in 1970 insofar as good will was concerned but the 7,000 mile trip through seven time zones did little to get the ball club in shape for a 162-game baseball camapign.

Half a season went by before Juan Marichal finally recovered from a severe reaction to penicillin treatment he received for a virus he picked up in Japan. And other members of the team came home from the far east with upset stomachs that didn't settle down for a fortnight.

It was precisely a year ago at this time that the Giants wound up their visit to Japan. Their travels this spring have taken them out of Arizona only twice, once last weekend on a pleasant and brief visit to Palm Springs and this one day trip to Albuquerque, the Texas League base of a Dodger farm club.

The Dodgers, on their way home from their Florida spring training base at Vero Beach, stopped in Albuquerque to play the Giants an exhibition game and were to make another stop in Phoenix today for a second game with their old rivals.

It was a sensible way for both teams to enter their final week of training. It's quite possible they will enter the final week of the 1971 National League race in a tight run for the National League's Western Division title.

The Dodgers received top rating with the defending National League champs, Cincinnati's Reds, when spring training opened almost six weeks ago because the Dodgers, during the winter, added the power bats of Rich Allen and Duke Sims to their lineup.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

But a solid schedule of 31 exhibition games, without a day off, uncovered a couple of rookies — Steve Stone and Chris Speier. A third rookie, George Foster, also got ample opportunity to prove his ability with glove and bat.

So much was written this spring about Stone and Speier that Foster received only passing notice. However, Foster is going to play a very important role in left field this season when Ken Henderson moves to center each time the team's 40-year-old captain, Willie Mays, needs a rest.

It isn't often that a team uncovers three rookies in one spring. The last time the Giants were delighted by such discoveries was 1958 — the year Jim Davenport, Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland and Bob Schmidt made their major league debuts.

Now, with Stone, Speier and Foster, the Giants hope to create new excitement in Candlestick Park. If Stone fulfills the No. 3 pitching assignment in the same way he performed in the exhibitioners, the Giants should cause some second thinking about pre-spring pennant predictions that tabbed the Reds and Dodgers 1-2 in the NL Western Division.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

NMS Industries Are In The Red

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. A friend has recommended NMS Industries. What are its prospects for a rebound? — J. R.

A. NMS president and chairman Noel Seeburg Jr. reported that a substantial deficit, incurred in the second fiscal quarter ended Feb. 28, has resulted in a loss for the first half. In the first 1971 fiscal quarter NMS earned 16 cents a share. A 39 cent a share loss was reported for fiscal 1970 as well.

This importer and distributor of housewares and stereo equipment merged two operations, sold assets of another, terminated a computer installation and liquidated inventory last year in an attempt to cut losses. As of Aug. 31, 1970, current assets were only 1.2 times current liabilities, long-term debt stood at $4 million and notes payable at $9.6 million. Unless you are an inveterate gambler, I'd look elsewhere for a security investment.

Q. I misplaced your article giving the address for the table on savings bond values. Could you repeat it? — O. B.

A. Yes. Send 20 cents to: Superintendent of Documents, Washington D.C., 20402 and request Table of Redemption Values of U.S. Savings Bonds. The sharp drop in interest rates available on other income investments has helped to restore popular interest in savings bonds. With the most recent bonus, these bonds now return 5½ if held to maturity. Bond sales for the month of February reached the highest level since 1945.

Q. I bought Whiting Corp. at $40. Should I hold for recovery? — J. G.

A. Whiting's business — heavy industrial equipment — is subject to wide cyclical variations. On Jan. 31, backlog was $22.9 million, off 21.5 per cent year-to-year. Billings in the first nine months through January were up 14 per cent, although net dropped 2.9 per cent on 2.8 per cent more shares outstanding.

Whiting manufactures overhead, gantry and stacker cranes, evaporators, centrifuges, and electric furnaces for a broad range of industries. The recent easing of tax rules covering depreciation, and the improved tone of the economy should create a stronger demand for replacement and new capital equipment. Shares have above average 12-to-18 month recovery potential and should be retained.

Ross Corp. Acquisition Plan Altered

Terms under which Ross Medical Corp. of Marin County would be acquired by Hospital Corp. of America have been amended.

It is now reported by Leo H. Strauss, president of Ross Medical and John A. Hill, president of Hospital Corp. that the latter organization would exchange one share of its common stock for three shares of Ross Medical, rather than one for 2.5 shares as originally agreed. This would reduce the total number of shares from 400,000 to 335,000.

The reason given for the change is that year-end financial results for Ross Medical, while still satisfactory, will not be consistent with earlier projections.

The acquisition is subject to approval of directors of Hospital Corp. of America, headquartered in Nashville, Tenn., and stockholders of Ross Medical Corp.

Slight Upward Trend, Heavy Trading On NYSE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks moved slightly higher in fairly heavy trading on Wall Street Wednesday.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.21 at 100.47, and advances topped declines, 784 to 611.

Closing prices included AT&T 48 3-4 off 1-8, Bethlehem Steel 21 5-8 unchanged, DuPont 138 1-2 off 3-4, Ford 60 1-4 up 5-8, General Electric 112 up 1-4, General Motors 82 off 3-4, IBM 357 1-2 up 1-2, Southern Pacific 40 1-2 up 1-2, Standard of Jersey 79 3-4 up 3-4, and U.S. Steel 33 up 1-4.

Electronics, airlines and aircrafts showed scattered strength. Lockheed was a firm spot in its group after announcement that the British Government and Lockheed reached a tentative agreement on continued production of the Rolls Royce RB211 jet engine for the firm's 300-passenger "Airbus."

Steels, motors, chemicals, oils, and rails traded narrowly and generally on both sides of previous closings. Copper issues also moved over a small range following the first industry copper price hike in about a year.

Pan Am Offers Link By Air To Rumania

NEW YORK (BW) — Direct air service will link the United States and Rumania for the first time when Pan American World Airways inaugurates twice-weekly service between New York and Bucharest on April 28.

In addition to Bucharest, other cities in Eastern Europe served by Pan Am include Moscow, Prague, Budapest and Belgrade.

Southern Pacific Alters Schedules

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — Southern Pacific railroad has announced it intends to join the new Railpax system if satisfactory operating contracts can be negotiated with the National Railroad Passenger Corp.

The railroad is beginning to post the required 30-day public notices of changes in train service effective May 1, when the national Railpax network takes over.

The notices technically call for discontinuance of Southern Pacific passenger trains on all its intercity routes, but point out that the National Railroad Passenger Corp. is anticipated to provide the service on all but three routes.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

With Even Average Income, Tax Savings Possible By Planning

Maybe you think these columns don't apply to you because you work for wages of less than $10,000 per year and your taxes are all paid by withholding. If you itemized your deductions, they would not amount to more than the standard deduction anyway, so you use the tax table and come out about even.

Suppose your wages are $10,000. You are married. No children. Two exemptions. Your contributions, interest, taxes, medical expenses, miscellaneous expenses, union dues, etc., all amount to about $1,000 per year. You can't win. Better take the tax table and call it even.

Still, a little tax planning may effect a substantial tax saving. Here's how. Pay two years contributions, two years interest, two years taxes, two years medical expenses, two years union dues, etc., etc., all in 1971. This could give you itemized deductions of about $2,000 and you would use the long form for 1971.

In 1972, you don't pay anything deductible that can be put off to 1973. When you file your 1972 return, you use the tax table which gives you the standard deduction. Then, again in 1973, you pay two years expenses in the one year and itemize.

How does this work? If you have enough medical expenses to overcome the 1 per cent floor on drugs and 3 per cent floor on medical expenses overall, pay all other medical expenses you may have for 1971, prepay the medical expense insurance for 1971 and for 1972, have that pending dental work done, get that new pair of glasses, have that operation.

If you pay real estate taxes, chances are you will pay one-half in April 1971, then also don't just pay the first half of the new bill in November. Pay it all in November or December of 1971. This will give you three halves to deduct in 1971.

You will be paying your California income tax in April of 1971 and if it is over $400 total, you will have to pay an estimate equal to one-half of the tax again on or before October 31, 1971, for your return due in 1972. Do not just pay half in October, pay it all and that way you will have it for a deduction in 1971.

There are always charitable contributions and while these are subject to some limitations, you should consider making your charitable contributions for 1971 and 1972 both in 1971.

If you do not have sufficient money for paying these bills in advance consider borrowing the money and compare your interest expense on such a loan with the possible tax savings. It might be a very profitable thing to borrow the money to pay your expenses a year in advance and effect the tax savings. Also, you might be able to prepay the interest on the loan and have that also as a tax deduction this year or you might be able to defer paying the loan until 1973 when you will again itemize your deductions and pay the interest at that time thus making a tax deductible item out of it.

There is nothing illegal or immoral in following the letter of the law. You are required to pay your fair share, but no more.

Judge Learned Hand said, "Over and over again courts have said there is nothing sinister in so arranging one's affairs as to keep taxes as low as possible. Everyone does so, rich or poor; and all do right, for nobody owes any public duty to pay more than the law demands; taxes are enforced exactions, not voluntary contributions."

Payment Cut

MIAMI — (BW) — The board of directors of National Air Lines have decided to omit payment of a quarterly cash dividend on the common stock because of uncertainties confronting the industry.

Doubts, Supply Halt Dow Plant

DALLESPORT, Wash. (BW) — Dow Chemical Co. has announced that its plans for completing the magnesium and chlorine production plant currently under construction here have been further delayed to Jan. 1, 1975.

The company said the decision to postpone completion of the plant was made because new studies of marketing projections indicate that existing and planned capacity for magnesium will be adequate to meet demand for the next few years.

The company said the decision was also based on uncertainties concerning the availability of electrical power and natural gas in the Pacific Northwest during 1972, 1973 and 1974.

Legislators Want Youth To 'Have It Both Ways'

The U.S. Supreme Court (in a strange decision which found eight of the justices divided 4-to-4 so that the ninth actually made the decision alone) has ruled that 18-year-olds are eligible to vote in federal elections. This means, we are told, elections for President and vice president of the United States.

Because this would result in a half-vote situation where the 18-year-olds could vote for President but not for governor, or mayor, or school board, Congress is working on a constitutional amendment to give those from 18 to 21 full voting rights.

This will require ratification by 38 states. In the meantime, many state legislatures — including California's — are pushing their own amendments to state constitutions to accomplish the same thing.

All this represents rather wide feeling that today's young people are entitled to attain their majority at age 18 instead of 21.

AT THE SAME TIME, however, that full voting rights for 18-year-olds are being pushed, we find several bills introduced in the California Legislature to provide a greater protective cloak — "security blanket," if you will — for those who have not yet attained their 18th birthday.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, has a bill (AB 914) to provide for seeing juvenile court petitions in ward-of-the-court proceedings one year after the juvenile court jurisdiction is terminated, instead of five years after as at present.

Assemblyman Carlos Moorhead, R-Glendate, has a bill (AB 887) permitting the clerk of a juvenile court to destroy all records in juvenile traffic cases five years after the juvenile court jurisdiction is terminated.

Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, has a bill that would go much farther. His SB 460 calls for sealing all records of all juvenile court cases a year after the court's jurisdiction terminates. And it further would make it a misdemeanor for any prospective employer to ask a young man or woman whether he or she has had a juvenile court record which has been sealed.

Senator Kennick's bill thus would make anyone with a juvenile crime record — be it murder, rape, assault with a deadly weapon, armed robbery, or some lesser offense — exempt from even being questioned about that record. A bank could not inquire whether the young person seeking employment had a record of theft, for instance.

Meanwhile, the Marin County counsel's office, through Thomas G. Hendricks, assistant county counsel, has joined the Marin Youth Commission in asking the Independent-Journal to cease publication of names of juveniles arrested on what amount to felony charges.

THIS WHOLE EFFORT appears to be to exempt the under-18 youth from all responsibility for whatever he does, no matter how criminal it may be.

Yet, on achieving the magic age of 18, this same young person would attain full voting rights to participate in government.

There is an old saying that "you can't have it both ways." But today's youth would indeed have it both ways if these various bills became law along with 18-year-old voting rights.

Of course, one should not expect legislators to be consistent.

Democratic Party Puts Issue Of Vietnam Withdrawal On Line

WASHINGTON — The issue of Vietnam withdrawal is at last being sharply defined between President Nixon and the entire Democratic Party.

This is good because it permits the nation to choose between two visible, radically different and concrete policies.

It is now the official and unanimous position of the Democratic Policy Council that it should be publicly announced that all U.S. forces — ground, air and naval — will be withdrawn from Indochina by Dec. 31 of this year.

It is the administration's firm and fixed position that no date for withdrawal should be publicly announced, that a more paced withdrawal is desirable and that a residual American force should remain as long as Hanoi holds American prisoners.

It seems to me that the action of the Democratic Party, in taking the position of totally challenging the President, is a healthy political development.

The American public is no longer limited to choosing between supporting or opposing the President on Vietnam withdrawal. Now Americans can positively express their approval of a withdrawal policy — either the administration's paced withdrawal or the Democratic alternative of an earlier, faster, total withdrawal.

THERE IS A BIG difference: choosing between a concrete and visible withdrawal program which a President is carrying out and a series of indeterminate alternatives which various leaders of the opposition party talk about.

Now the Democrats have laid it on the line. Its party council, chaired by Sen. Hubert Humphrey and comprising local, state and national leaders, is the official and authoritative voice of the party.

Now a real, meaningful debate can take place and public opinion can be more effectively mobilized either in support of the President's plan or in support of the Democratic alternative.

The preciseness of the new Democratic position and its sharp divergencies from the President's policy — a publicly proclaimed date, all troops out in nine months, no residual force of any kind — will have a substantial impact in shaping public sentiment on Vietnam from here to the 1972 presidential election.

IT IS NOT self-evident which side will be benefited.

The President will have to defend his paced withdrawal against a clearly stated, definite alternative, not just against general criticism. This will likely draw some new adherence to the Democratic alternative.

But there's also evidence that when people have to choose between the Nixon program and a fixed faster withdrawal they step back.

The evidence of this emerges from two recent Gallup Polls. One poll showed that 88 per cent would like to see all U.S. forces out of Vietnam by the end of this year. But shortly thereafter this high percentage dropped to 51 per cent when people were asked whether they would like to see much faster, total withdrawal made mandatory.

IT IS THIS latter choice which the Democratic Party is now asking the country to make. The Democrats believe that if public opinion moves strongly to their side, as they are convinced it will, this will force the President to move U.S. troops more rapidly out of Vietnam and that in the end the Vietnam issue will be an asset to the Democratic presidential nomiee in 1972.

It could be this way but it is far from a certainty. Mr. Nixon is not going to stand still. The initiative is with the President. He can speed up withdrawal to a pace which may satisfy the majority of Americans as prudent.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Bruce Desperate For Recognition?

Is Administrator Alan Bruce so desperate for recognition (or whatever his motive) that he must trample on the backs of others to achieve his aims?

It gives one an uncomfortable feeling that the affairs of our county are in the hands of an unstable and unprincipled official.

For a model of the perfect public servant he would do well to look to Marin County's public health officer.

Dominican Story Told Best In I-J

Now that we can look back on the week in perspective, it becomes clear (not only to me) that Mary Leydecker's story on our new status was the best coverage that we had. People on campus felt it was good straightforward writing, and were grateful to you for avoiding the "elite enclave" approach. Obviously your story was picked up by the wire services, because I have had letters from people who read of the change in places as widely separated as Tampa and Providence. I have also had unsolicited applications from prospective coaches!

Dredging Permits Affect North Marin

The vital life line of North Marin — Water — was affected by the action of the Board of Supervisors of Sonoma County on March 8. On that date their board granted three use permits for the dredging of gravel in the Russian River area. One supervisor fought vainly against the granting of the permits; another supervisor vitally affected was out of the county and unaware of the action until he returned.

The use permits endanger hundreds of acres of prime agricultural land, ignore the recommendations of experts and conservationists, ignore petitions and letters sent to the board, and give little heed to the recommendations of the Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments that these permits be denied.

We who reside in Sonoma County, and those who reside in the North Marin area, are affected, and we earnestly request that interested citizens and conservationists learn what they can about this matter and let their wishes be known to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

Ex-Nun's Remarks Somewhat Confused

Sweetfaced ex-nun Jacqueline Wexler, in Hunter "College President Reacts" (I-J Marin Women, Mar. 23), is unfortunate in her choice of military terms to parry the prevalent criticism of the college insurrectionists. She calls the critic "a sniper run amok" and the criticism "machine-gun flak mowing down a generation." For a "sniper" (a concealed long-range marksman) to "run amok" (i.e. rush about wildly) would be amusing to say the least. My dictionary defines "flak" as anti-aircraft cannon fire.

I feel sure Mrs. Wexler did not approve of a highly placed official referring, during the trial, to the Manson "murders", yet she refers to the "murders at Kent State" although only certain insurrectionists have been indicted. An explanation for such an oversight might be deduced from observing that although a nun has abundant opportunity to quit the convent anytime during her long novitiate, Mrs. Wexler could not make up her mind until after she had taken her final solemn vows.

On the basis of her conclusion that for the "young" and the "older generation" to "usually agree" (say for example, that it is not civilized to stone others, to riot, destroy, to commit arson, etc.), manifests "stagnation and despair" on the part of the young, and "irresponsibility and abdication" on the part of the older generation, I shall have to say that Mrs. Martha Mitchell ("the academic society is responsible for all our troubles") won by a knockout.

Slaughter Of Cats With Pellet Guns

As a resident of San Anselmo and a cat owner, I would like to bring to the public's attention a problem which may be more widespread than we would like to believe. In the past three months, I have lost two cats as victims of pellet guns; another has survived. Perhaps someone just doesn't like cats and is trying to rid the world of their presence by shooting them, or someone believes it is "open season" on any animal walking along the banks of the creek, but anyone who thinks it is great "sport" or good fun to use cats, or any small animals, as targets for his air rifle or target pistol should be forced to watch such an animal die in agony at 3 or 4 in the morning and be powerless to ease its suffering, or bring it any peace. This has been my lot on two separate occasions and they were shattering experiences. Both times were the result of someone's handiness with a weapon, which is, by the way, illegal to fire in the city limits.

If other pet owners who have lost their animals in similar situations will report that loss both to the SPCA and the police, perhaps the whole sickening business can be halted. Maiming of animals with air rifles, target pistols, slingshots or whatever is about on a par with the senseless poisoning of dogs. In view of my recent experiences with my pets, I find it unbearable to contemplate the fates of four other animals of mine which have disappeared without trace over the past two or three years.

One might hope that aspiring marksmen will give some thought to the consequences of their activities. The next victim could easily be another human being.

Pigeons Pass Through

The band-tailed pigeons arrived in Marin last week on their way from Mexico to Washington and Oregon. The wide, light gray band across the end of the tail, from which these pigeons get their name, is not very easily seen except when they spread their tails to land.

These birds post a scout or a lookout in the top of an oak and, if all goes well, he is joined shortly by the flock of 15 to 25 members.

Band-tailed pigeons are extremely shy and take off like a roll of drums when one opens a house door. They are quite fond of acorns, which they gather from the trees or on the ground.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Brown Cites Need For Action On 18-Year-Old Vote Fiasco

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — A lot of logic, plus a genuine concern for the California taxpayer, was advanced by Sec. of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. in his recent plea to California congressmen to resolve the 18-year-old voting situation.

Under present federal law, persons 18 years old and up may vote for President of the United States, but not for other candidates on the ballot, nor for or against propositions.

The situation is wholly untenable, Secretary Brown points out, as well as being illogical and extremely costly.

"THE DUAL-AGE voting system," said Brown, "will increase the state's election costs by at least $5 million.

"This entire sum will have to come from increased property taxes, as the counties of the state are required by law to underwrite election costs.

"Home-owners are being taxed to the brink, and it is unjust to make them subsidize this illogical voting system."

Approval by Congress of a porposed constitutional amendment would result in the amendment being submitted to the states for ratification. Approval of 38 states is required for making the amendment effective. Such approval would lower the voting age to 18 years in all of the states, creating uniformity where now no uniformity exists.

Failure of the Congress to deal with the problem via the federal constitutional amendment route would force 50 state legislatures to resolve the issue in conformity with federal law, resulting in a hybrid collection of laws throughout the nation.

A FEDERAL amendment, of course, would not entirely settle the matter for the states. It would be necessary, if such an amendment were ratified, for the states to complete the job of making persons 18 years of age adults.

This would have to be done largely by the state legislature, and probably in some instances by a vote of the people.

If the 18-year-old is mature enough to assist in the choosing of the President, who is the titular leader of all the people in the nation, then the young voter is old enough to participate in local and state elections.

Certainly he then is mature enough to marry without parental consent, decide whether he should become a patron of the local bistros, assume responsibility for his debts, and become an adult in all matters rather than just being able to vote for the president.

A change of this nature is a big step, but the interests of the people are not served when politicians approach it on a piecemeal basis.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Nuclear Power Could Help Save Environment

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — If the fantastic idea of a hang-the-cost crash project to put an American on the moon in a decade had been proposed by Richard Nixon in 1971 instead of by John Kennedy in 1961, it would have been laughed right out of Congress. That is the inescapable conclusion to be drawn from the legislative decision to abandon the SST.

It is not merely a comment on the inspirational quality of our leadership then and now. Considering today's concern over spending priorities and the environment, to spend $23.9 billion in the '70s on something so farfetched as a moon landing would be clearly contrary to the national will.

YET THERE IS ALL around us now a problem that could be turned into a challenge just as inspirational as the moon, and much more urgent to our national survival. In a large sense it is the already overwritten state of our environment. More specifically, it is the pollution of our air and water and the accompanying, now nearly hysterical ravaging of our land caused by continuing reliance on fossil fuels — coal, oil and gas — for most of our energy production.

The solution to it is nuclear energy. Once the automatic chill that the word "nuclear" provokes in many of us passes, the objective fact is that this is the cleanest, least destructive and safest way to meet our multiplying demands for electricity.

Fourteen years ago, I was at Shippingport, Pa., when the first full-scale atomic power plant in the country, built under direction of Adm. Hyman Rickover, started producing electricity. It was a euphoric day for the scientists and engineers involved, a milestone comparable to 1945, when most of the world first realized there was such a thing as atomic energy and imagined what it could mean in the future.

IN THE PAST 14 years nuclear power plants have become even more common than we envisioned that day at Shippingport. But in those same years the nation's electrical needs have multiplied, too. And by the year 2000 the demand for electricity will grow six-fold.

By that time there will be about 1,000 nuclear power plants in the United States, generating about one billion kilowatts of electricity. But even such an optimistic advocate as Dr. Glenn E. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, admits that that will be only about half of the electricity we need and that fossil fuel plants still will produce the remainder.

His arithmetic says, in other words, that 30 years from now the rate at which our mountains are being destroyed by strip mining and our air and water defiled by coal smoke and oil spills will be tripeled. How can the good earth stand that?

It cannot.

ONE PROPOSED WAY to avoid it is to stabilize, even cut back, our population and to live more austerely with a minimum of electrical gadgets. While seriously proposed and highly desirable, it is too idealistic to be attained.

The people who are willing to do without children and conveniences to that end are a minority, the same minority that are for recycling metal, paper, glass and other products as a conservation method. Yet every form of recycling requires vast amounts of industrial energy.

That means either further destruction or nuclear power plants. What we will have, of course, is both. But it is not merely idealistic to propose a new crash project to sharply reduce the proportion of fossil fuels burnt in the energy mix of the year 2000 — or 1980, for that matter.

OF COURSE nuclear power plants pollute, too, and their pollution is more frightening to laymen because it is invisible and relates somehow to the fallout from nuclear weapons. But it is far less damaging than the fossil fuel pollution so tangible and familiar to us all.

So is it susceptible to still further reduction, almost to nil. New generations of breeder reactors are forthcoming, and beyond them pollution-free fusion reactors, harnessing the hydrogen bomb process. What it takes is national will, which means money.

It costs us $23.9 billion to go to the moon. The government was eager to spend $290 million a year to develop the SST. But for fiscal 1972 it has budgeted $158 million for civilian atomic reactor development, and $44 million for environmental research in the same field — $202 million taken together.

Chalk that up on your schedule of national priorities.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Districts Subject To 'Bookkeeping Error'

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Sacramento city schools have a $3.2 million headache which could easily be duplicated, on a lesser scale, in many other California school districts.

Sacramento Unified School District finds itself short $3.2 million because of what has been reported as a bookkeeping error.

Such a bookkeeping error — although not in such a huge amount — could occur in any school district that operates a junior high school-type program in seventh and eighth grades. It is invited by a provision in the California Education Code.

THE CODE PROVIDES for what are called "override taxes" for many special purposes — more than 30 of them, in fact. These are tax levies which a school district may impose on top of the tax rate that has been approved by the district's voters. The voter-approved rate is known as the "general purpose operating" tax rate. The legislature in its wisdom (or lack of it) has decided over the years that a great many things are not "general purpose operating" functions. Hence, the overrides.

These not only are levied without voter approval, but often they are tacked on without the taxpayer being aware of them. They are for such diverse uses as employee retirement plans; employee medical, dental and hospital insurance plans; repairing school buildings to make them conform to the Field Act; installing fire sprinkler systems, etc. And one of them is the "junior high school override."

The theory behind this is that it costs more to operate a junior high-type program, with laboratory courses, special teachers for different subjects, etc., than to operate an elementary school-type program in which the pupils go to class to the same teacher all day. Undoubtedly it does — though why this should be an excuse for levying an additional tax over which the voters have no control may be hard to understand.

AT ANY RATE, the override for junior high schools is supposed to raise only enough money to cover the additional costs imposed by this system of operation. It is illegal to use money raised by this override for anything else.

Naturally, it is not a simple matter to determine exactly what dollars are spent because of a junior high-type program that would not be spent without it. The man who draws up the budget must make a lot of judgemental decisions as to whether a particular expenditure can be financed from the junior high override.

Sacramento Unified School District started levying such an override in 1964. And its levy became so healthy that in the last three years it produced $3.2 million more than the actual additional cost of the junior high program.

THIS MONEY did not show up as unexpended surplus, however. It was all spent — but for purposes other than that for which the tax was levied, according to Herman Pede, the district's new budget director, who discovered the mammoth diversion.

To make up for the $3.2 million it illegally extracted from its taxpayers' pockets during the three years, the district must cut next year's spending by that amount. It may have to discharge as many as 300 employees, increase class sizes, cut out special programs, etc. And because $3.2 million represents 68.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation on the Sacramento district's tax rate, a special election to permit an 88-cent increase in the "general purpose operating" rate (that's the one the voters control — remember) will, if passed, produce only an 11.3-cent increase.

Most California school districts having junior high programs levy this particular override tax. The control of it depends largely on the judgment of the budget officer. Auditors who audit the books annually have little or no way to determine whether the money is used for its legal purpose. The whole setup invites the kind of bookkeeping error that occurred in Sacramento.

One Short Of 100 To Death Row

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The death sentences of Charles Manson and his three female codefendants brings to a record 99 the number of persons condemned to die in San Quentin's gas chamber, the state Department of Corrections said yesterday.

But there is no way of telling when—if ever—the convicted persons will be executed.

The jury in the Sharon Tate murders case Monday decreed death for Manson and his "family," and Superior Court Judge Charles Older set April 19 for formal sentencing.

California already had 95 persons sentenced to death, including 93 men on death row, one presently in court in Oregon, and a woman being held at the Institution for Women at Corona. The previous record was 96, according to a spokesman for the Corrections Department.

The last execution in the apple-green chamber was in 1967, when Aaron Mitchell was put to death for killing a policeman during a Sacramento robbery.

Rhetoric Of Activists Is Attacked

BERKELEY (UPI) —Columbia University President William J. McGill warned Tuesday against a new "verbal pollution" throughout American society—but mainly on college campuses.

McGill made an eloquent attack on the rhetoric of college activists at the place where it all started six years ago — the University of California.

In remarks prepared for the university's 103rd Charter Anniversary exercises, McGill defined verbal pollution as stylized verbal abuse "in which hostility, paranoia and threat combine to terrify the listener."

He criticized President Nixon for saying, "We ought to lower our voices," and later sending Vice President Agnew "across the nation in a rhetorical display that literally blew off the roof from Maine to California."

"Irrationality and inconsistency at the highest levels of our national life breed parallel irrationality and inconsistency at other levels," McGill said.

He said while the Vietnam War escalates in ferocity and the government decreases its commitment to it, students smash faculty offices to underline their commitment to peace.

McGill blamed politicians, press, radio and TV for verbal pollution, but said unquestionably the purest form now comes from activists on college campuses.

"This manifestation is compounded out of wild, hysterical charges, gross obscenities, dreary cliches, demagogy and unreason," he said.

"It is delivered in sing-song fashion like a badly rehearsed stage speech to the accompanisment of a variety of gestures and grimaces conveying barely controlled anger."

"There is something uniquely shallow about rhetorical denunciations of university trustees and administrators as fascist exploiters, running dogs of the Pentagon, lackeys of the imperialists."

"Civilized people have never had to talk in this way in order to put their arguments across forcefully," McGill said.

"All of us need to recognize that the campus rhetoric of the last several years is a form of verbal pollution as destructive to the quality of our environment as smog, boiling water and jet noise."

McGill paid special tribute to the Berkeley campus' chancellor, Roger W. Heyns, who is quitting after five years in the job.

"The fact that the Berkeley campus stands and continues to flourish intellectually today is a tribute to his wisdom, his idealism, and his strength," McGill said.

Bagley Is Dubious On MMWD Bills

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The Marin Municipal Water District's bid for legislation to bypass the voters in raising money apparently is headed for a chilly reception from Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The district board voted unanimously last week to ask Bagley to introduce the legislation, but he told the Independent-Journal yesterday that his "strong inclination is not to carry their water."

Bagley noted that he always had introduced legislation asked by the county board of supervisors, regardless of whether he would actively support it. "My view has been that the board of supervisors always should have the prerogative to put a bill in print.

"I don't feel the same for a special district, however. They don't speak for the whole county as does the board of supervisors."

But he said he would "listen to their plight." Bagley added that his office had received numerous telephone calls from "civically aware" citizens with "strong suggestions" that he reject the water board's proposed legislation.

The water board vote came a week ago today, yet Bagley said yesterday that he still had received no word from the district on what it wanted.

Bagley said he based his "strong inclination" to reject the proposed legislation on "an apparent promise to the voters that there would be voter approval of further financing."

The water district board last November successfully promoted an $11.5 million bond issue on the promise that it was one of a series of fund-raising issues to be presented to the voters.

The money would finance the district's $21.6 million share of the roughly $47.7 million Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

The district board asked for two bills, one to allow the district to borrow $18 million from the Sonoma County Water Agency, the second, an alternative, to allow creaton of a master agency to handle the project.

Richard Norton, assistant chief engineer of the Sonoma Agency, told the district board last week that the project may be delayed a year or more if both bills failed.

Vocational Education Funds Told

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Five Marin County school districts and one in Southern Sonoma have been allocated portions of a $20.6 million federal grant for vocational education.

Wilson Riles, state superintendent of schools, said the allocations were made by the state Board of Education earlier this month to 358 secondary school districts and 68 community college districts, based on population and an equalization factor.

The allocations included: Marin Junior College District, $87,953; Tamalpais High School District, $44,415; San Rafael High School District, $30,959; Novato Unified, $23,247; Shoreline, $5,000, and Petaluma, $29,080.

Wesley P. Smith, director of vocational education in Riles' office, said the schools were being notified of their allocations to permit advance planning on the 1971-72 budget. California's vocational education program is funded 33 per cent by the state, 57 per cent by local districts and approximately 10 per cent by the federal grants, Smith said.

Behr To Propose Override Tax To Replenish District Losses

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation empowering school districts to levy a special override property tax to recover revenue lost from land designated as agricultural preserves is about to be introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure would apply statewide, but the senator cited the local example of the Shoreline School District, which faces a loss of one-quarter of its total property tax revenue. This loss comes from both agricultural preserves and from acqusition of Point Reyes National Seashore.

Behr said his measure, which would not cover taxes lost to the national seashore, would at least give temporary tax relief to such districts until a better solution could be found.

Agricultural preserves are designated under the state's Williamson Act, designed to preserve open space by contracting with large property owners to maintain agricultural areas. Land under the contracts is assessed as agricultural land, not at higher values as if it were available for development.

Behr said the measure was asked by the Marin County counsel's office for the Shoreline School District.

The district's assessed valuation, because of the contracts and shoreline acquisition, dropped $3,105,00 in fiscal 1969-70. This meant a net loss of $120,500 in income, according to district figures.

The loss in income this fiscal year was estimated at $130,000.

Seashore acqusition already has shaved $2.5 million off the assessed valuation of the district, and another $2 million will come off the tax roll when the seashore is completed, the district reported.

In total, the Williamson Act and seashore purchase will mean an annual revenue loss to the district of $250,000. Its annual operating budget is slightly over $1 million.

Dialogue Set On Recreational Needs

The East Petaluma Civic Association will meet with teenagers at 7:30 p.m. today at La Tercera School multiuse room to study recreational needs for youths.

Association spokesmen said ideas on a possible teen center will be discussed.

Assemblyman Ernest N. Mobley, R-Fresno, has introduced a bill requiring the state to reimburse local agencies for such revenue losses. His measure, however, faces tough sledding in a year when the state may face a tax increase just to balance its budget.

Sen. Goldwater Plans To Retire, His Son Reports

UPPER MONTCLAIR, N.J. (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., plans to retire from the Senate at the end of his current term, according to his son.

"He's a firm believer in moving aside and making way for younger people," U.S. Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Cal., said Monday night. The senior Goldwater was the Republican candidate for President in 1964.

He said he continues to support the President, and the only area of the president's programs he opposes is welfare reform.

Bogus Medi-Cal Bills: $910,000

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—A dentist charged with defrauding the state's Medicaid program of $910,000 was arraigned Tuesday on 21 counts of making fraudulent claims, grand theft and conspiracy.

Dr. Eugene Cyrus Tarasen and two women employes faced arraignment today in Watsonville on 12 more counts.

Tarasen, who operates three offices in the Monterey Bay area towns of Monterey, Salinas and Watsonville, Mrs. Gloria Fickett. 27, and Mrs. Velma Ladine Yetter, were indicted last week by grand juries in Santa Cruz and Monterey counties.

State officials estimated Tarasen, who advertises his practice on a "pay later" basis, defrauded the state of up to $910,000 through bogus Medi-cal billings. The indictments followed a two-year investigation by state authorities.
